Red Scientist Claims:

Radio Finds Life In Distant Space

MOSCOW (Reuters)—Soviet radio astronomers have discovered a source of regular-patterned radio waves on the far fringes of space and one of them says definitely "a super-civilization has been discovered." It was reported Monday.

The claimant, Dr. Nikolai Kardashev, last year urged scientists around the world to study the distant source, CTA-102, more thoroughly than any other objective in the universe. Recent observations by astronomer Gennady Sholomitsky have shown that emissions from CTA-102 follow a regular pattern of flickerings repeated every 100 days, the news agency Tass reported.

NEW CIVILIZATION

This finding, Kardashev said, confirms that a new civilization has been found, but other astronomers call for more verification of data before drawing such a conclusion.

Results of Sholomitsky's findings in recent months have been sent almost daily to Moscow to be checked and rechecked.

MAJOR DISCOVERY

Moscow scientists say "we face perhaps one of the most outstanding discoveries in the whole history of radio-astronomy."

John Wyndham of the California Institute of Technology, who first catalogued CTA-102, said he had not noticed any variations in radio strength, but added:

FIRST OF ITS KIND

"If it is true that the radio emission fluctuates, this would be the first of its kind among quasars."

"Quasar," or quasi-stellar radio source, is the scientific name for the invisible signal-emitting phenomena in space.

Harrie Massey, chairman of the British National Committee for Space Research, said of the Russian claim:

"It is extremely interesting. One must take it seriously."

But he said the Russians have by no means presented conclusive evidence.

SOMETHING NEW

Fred Haddock, a radio astronomer at the University of Michigan, said:

"If they indeed have signals of regularly varying intensity, this would indeed be something new in the field."

Frank D. Drake, an astronomer at Cornell University, said:

"If the 'flickering' follows a simple pattern, a natural explanation is likely. If the pattern is complex and repeats itself, an intelligent origin is likely."

Kardashev theorized that if the emissions are caused by rational beings the source must be very small. Tass said this

Caouette Collapses

OTTAWA (CP)—Credited leader of the New Democratic Party, Jack Caouette, 47, was taken to hospital in nearby Hull, Que., Monday after collapsing in his Commons office.

His executive assistant, Fernand Bourret, said heart trouble was suspected.

Dr. Paul A. Meilleur, who examined Mr. Caouette at hospital, said the Creditiste leader's condition did not appear to be serious.

Crests Still to Come

Minnesotans Battling Flood-Swollen Rivers

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—Minnesotans by the thousands stayed away from jobs and schools Monday to fight rising rivers. It appeared major flooding will last at least another week.

New Shuffle Expected In Viet Nam

SAIGON (Reuters)—A purge of South Viet Nam's powerful armed forces council appeared likely Monday following the removal of two key military figures from their commands over strong American objections.

Air Marshal Nguyen Cao Ky, air force commander and one of the most influential figures of the council, announced Saturday that certain "bad" elements in the council were to be eliminated.

He did not name officers who might be removed from the council but observers believed they might include Admiral Chung Tan Cang and Brig.-Gen. Pham Van Dong, who have been replaced in their military commands.

The authoritative sources, however, affirmed that both officers were charged with corruption.

The flood has taken seven lives, cost an estimated $20,000,000 in damage and left 25,000 persons homeless.

From city after city came reports of waters rising to new heights. Dikes built after earlier floods proved inadequate.

A dozen communities fought their own battles, aided by thousands of volunteers including teen-agers dismissed from schools in many areas.

Ice jams on the Mississippi River and its tributaries added to the woes.

A major effort continued in St. Paul where workers scrambled to finish a three-foot high addition to a permanent floodwall and to build new dikes around industrial plants and stockyards.

A 27-foot river crest due in St. Paul Friday would be an all-time record and 13 feet over flood stage.

"We feel that if the predictions hold we should be all right," said Eugene Avery, St. Paul city engineer. "The additions we're making should give us about a foot of free board."

The Minnesota River, looping through south-central Minnesota, was beginning a slow downward trend, but embattled Mankato will have to wait at least until Saturday before the river recedes within its banks.

The Red Lake River in the Northwest joined the list of rampaging waters, with waves lapping at the top of sandbags piled atop permanent dikes built after a 1950 flood.

The Minnesota River was due to crest at Shakopee and Savage Monday night, moving relentlessly to its junction with the Mississippi below St. Paul.

The usually docile Crow River continued to flood Delano and Hutchinson west of Minneapolis.

Bicultural Queries 'Irrelevant'

Pearson Wouldn't Answer

OTTAWA (CP)—Memo to the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism:

Prime Minister Pearson considers some questions in your survey of MPs "irrelevant and highly inappropriate" and would not answer them himself.

This was the gist of a statement Mr. Pearson made in the Commons Monday in reply to complaints last week by Opposition Leader Diefenbaker and other Conservatives that the royal commission was "usurping" in party politics.

NOT RELEVANT

The Prime Minister said he agrees with the commission's aim of seeking "all relevant information on the bilingual and bicultural aspects of the work of our institutions, including Parliament," but he didn't approve of the questionnaire in its present form.

"If I were asked to answer it in its present form I would not, as I consider many of the questions irrelevant and some highly inappropriate,"

Mr. Pearson said he did not want to tell any inquiry what to do or interfere improperly, even the terms of reference were set.

"But I would think," he added, "that after reviewing what was said this morning in the House of Commons, the royal commission might wish to have another look at this questionnaire."

A spokesman for the commission told a reporter later that it was doing just that.

FEW REFUSED

The spokesman said 55 to 60 MPs in all parties have agreed so far to two-hour in-depth interviews by a dozen researchers from the commission. Very few had refused. The original plan was to interview senators later.

Purpose of the research project was to delineate the different attitudes between French- and English-speaking MPs and senators towards their functions in Parliament and their relations with their constituents, parties and party caucus groups.

White Paper Shows Whopping Deficit Cut

OTTAWA (CP)—Last spring's federal budget deficit of $619,200,000 was cut by a whopping 57 per cent to $203,000,000 in the 1964-65 fiscal year, Finance Minister Gordon reported Monday.

After tabling his pre-budget white paper in the Commons, he told reporters:

"It was a very good year in all industries, in all economic components and in all parts of the country."

Mr. Gordon announced in the Commons that his budget for the new year will be introduced the day the Commons returns from its proposed Easter recess, Monday, April 26.

He told reporters he had underestimated the growth of the economy and buoyancy of federal government revenues last year. This is the kind of underestimation he does not find embarrassing, he said.

The deficit for the year ended March 31 was the lowest since a $38,000,000 deficit in 1957-58, and came after a string of six running as high as $791,000,000 in 1961-62. In his budget last spring Mr. Gordon had forecast a deficit of $455,000,000.

NO PREDICTION

But he would make no prediction Monday about the size of the deficit—or surplus—he expects at the end of the current fiscal year next March 31. That forecast will be in his budget speech.

"I am optimistic about the months ahead and the years ahead, as well as the long-term future of Canada," he told reporters.

What does the white paper mean to the man in the street? he was asked.

UNDER CONTROL

"It means the finances of the federal government are under control once again and the business of the country is being pretty well managed."

The economy last year surged forward to a much greater extent than the government anticipated.

Tax Cuts Hinted In Budget

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Gordon will bring down his 1965 budget Monday night, April 26, amid mounting speculation that he will do some discriminating pruning of the Canadian tax tree.

His pre-budget white paper, tabled in the Commons Monday, gave a new spurt to the speculation when it estimated a 1964-65 budgetary deficit of $203,000,000 compared with an original forecast a year ago of $455,000,000. The unexpected rise in revenues reflected an 8.9 per cent increase in the Gross National Product last year.

While Mr. Gordon now appears to have a balanced budget within reach—his traditional goal—there is strong speculation he will forego the opportunity this time in favor of a tax

CHICAGO (AP)—The United States counted a staggering 239 deaths Monday in the wake of the Palm Sunday outburst of tornadoes that hit six states.

Families dug through debris looking for valuables in what had been their homes. National Guardsmen were ordered in stricken areas to aid in salvage work and prevent looting, and officials began the vast cleanup job.

The death list from five battered states was 132 in Indiana, 55 in Ohio, 44 in Michigan, seven in Illinois and three in Wisconsin.

SERVICES CUT

Still crippled were communications, utilities, and normal services of nearly 50 communities. Water shortage and health perils were reported.

The tornadoes, starting in Iowa, which was relatively unscathed, smashed a path eastward across a heavily populated region to Ohio before easing their punishment.

1,500 INJURED

The American Red Cross said more than 1,500 were injured, more than 1,200 homes were destroyed or damaged in at least 33 communities.

Damage was expected to run into many millions of dollars. The American Insurance Association designated the string of storms as a catastrophe.

FOLLOWED KILLER

Sunday's barrage of twisters came after a tornado killed six persons and injured 88 at Conway, Ark., Saturday night.

The twister, crumpled, flattened suburban sections of Toledo, brought the exclamation from Governor James A. Rhodes of Ohio:

"Fantastic . . . unbelievable! There's nothing you can compare it with."

GUARD CALLED OUT

Rhodes ordered National Guard units to help police and disaster forces to bring order out of wreckage and care for stunned people.

The National Guard was also ordered out in small units to scattered communities in Michigan and Indiana. Both states were scarred from west to east limits.

FIELDS SEARCHED

Indiana, with the highest state death toll, was expected to find more bodies as workers searched open fields, cellars of smashed homes and wreckage of stores. Many victims were blown hundreds of feet by wind.

Probers Pin Guilt on Nerve Gas

Poisoned Sheets Nearly Killed Two Boys

TORONTO (CP)—The near-fatal illness of two Vancouver youngsters sparked an international investigation that eventually blamed an accident at sea and resulted in the destruction of cargo in widely-separated communities.

A report on two cases of parathion (nerve gas) poisoning in the current Journal of the Canadian Medical Association reads like a detective drama.

Authorities in Belgium, California, Ottawa, Edmonton, Vancouver and Burnaby, B.C., became involved after two boys, one five years old, the other 12, were admitted to Lions Gate Hospital in North Vancouver nine days apart a year ago.

R. F., the five-year-old, was admitted the morning of March 23, 1964, with breathing difficulties.

He was in semi-coma after a few days of illness and vision trouble. He soon lapsed into coma, foamed at the mouth and required artificial respiration to breathe.

That night "he suddenly and inexplicably began to improve" and he was discharged well from hospital April 9. Pediatrician J. E. Parker says it was decided the boy had been suffering from viral encephalitis.

Inflammation of the brain from a virus infection.

V. R., a 12-year-old neighbor of R. F., was admitted to the hospital April 7 in the same condition and required an emergency operation to open his windpipe. He regained consciousness the next morning and was discharged April 13.

Meanwhile, R. F. became ill again and returned to hospital April 11. By this time, doctors suspected poisoning and administered the drug atropine, which led to the boy's recovery.

Public health authorities were approached and they made their first visits to the homes of the boys April 13 in a search for the source of the trouble. They found R. F.'s 16-year-old brother in bed ill with headache, blurred vision and complaints of muscular weakness.

Railway Gets Go-Ahead

EDMONTON (CP) — A bill setting up a new railway to open up coal, timber and pulp resources in western Alberta was approved Monday as the legislature resumed after a sitting day.

The bill created a new crown corporation, the Alberta Resources Railway Corporation, which will use government cash reserves to finance construction.

The railway will start from a point on the Canadian National Railways mainline about 170 miles west of Edmonton and push northwest into sparsely-inhabited Rocky Mountain foothills bushland.

DIRECT ACCESS

Eventually it will provide direct rail access to Pacific ports for resources in northwestern Alberta and the Northwest Territories via the CNR mainline.

The CNR is expected to purchase the line outright in the future. Total government investment in the project may reach $40,000,000.

The bill was among the last of 119 given royal assent by Lieutenant-Governor J. Percy Page as the 15th legislature's second session wound up.

PROBE POWERS

Another established a committee to determine whether government boards and commissions have too many arbitrary powers which infringe on individual rights. The committee may recommend an ombudsman.

A record $38,782,862 spending program for the 1965-66 fiscal year was approved by the assembly. The government estimated it would have to take $22,638,862 from its oil-fattened cash reserves to cover the anticipated 1965-66 deficit.

BIG INCREASE

The budget called for big increases in health, education and public works spending, with the health department allotted more than $120,000,000, public works projects $36,222,000, almost a 100 per cent increase over 1964-65, and education more than $116,000,000.

Biggest single revenue source, the oil and natural gas industry, is expected to return $180,000,000 in 1965-66.

DEVELOP NORTH

The government, in its 30th year in office, kicked off a northern development program with an allotment of $2,500,000 for construction of roads, airstrips, and similar facilities over the next year.

Nerve Gas Poisons Two

R. E.'s father was a salvage dealer who purchased damaged cargo from ship insurance agents and resold it. The search was narrowed to some candy both R. F. and V. R. had eaten and some flannel sheets, which had been stained in ocean transit, purchased by the salvage dealer and used on beds in the homes of both boys.

The sheets, part of a damaged cargo that had arrived in February from Antwerp, Belgium, included some with faint brown stains.

The candy was cleared and the sheets tested at the federal food and drug administration laboratory in Vancouver. They were stained with parathion, a phosphate nerve gas widely used by fruit farmers as an insecticide.

The first job was to track down all the stained sheets. Fifty were recovered from homes in the neighborhood of the sick boys, 40 in a Vancouver Island rest home, Echo Lodge, at Hilliers, and about 140 were found to have been consigned to two Vancouver retail stores. Most were recovered and burned.

Working through shipping agents and federal government authorities, it was determined that a German freighter that carried the sheets also had loaded 72 drums of parathion at Antwerp and delivered the insecticide at a California port on the way to Vancouver. Apparently one or more of the 55-gallon drums had leaked parathion into the hold in transit.

Checking further, public health officials found that a quantity of silk sent to Edmonton and 165 pairs of baby blankets consigned to Burnaby had also been in the hold. Alberta health authorities were warned. Some of the baby blankets were found to be contaminated and all were recovered and destroyed.

Federal health officials got in touch with their counterparts in California to warn them to check any material delivered there. Arrangements were made to clean out the ship's hold and for tracing any other material shipped in that hold.

Three Deaths Under Investigation

VANCOUVER (CP) — Police are investigating circumstances surrounding three apparently unrelated violent deaths on the weekend.

Two men were being held for questioning in the death of Jean Siro, 47, whose body was found Sunday in a skid road rooming house. Another man was released after questioning.

HEAD INJURY — Police found Miss Siro's body after being tipped off that a woman had died in the rooming house. An autopsy disclosed she died of head injuries, and police said her body was covered with bruises.

Also being investigated is the death of Thomas Paulin, 39, whose body was found on the floor of his skid road hotel room.

LACERATIONS — Police said he apparently died Saturday. There was a severe laceration on the back of his head, and blood on his clothing and bed.

A third victim, Harry Thomas Parsons, died Sunday night in hospital of a fractured skull.

Police found him semi-conscious Friday night slumped against a fence in a downtown alley.

It's pointless to say don't worry, but learn not to wreck your emotions worrying about things that may never happen, or to spend your days fretting about things that can't be helped. And don't keep your troubles bottled up too tight or too long. Talk things over sensibly at times with someone close to you. Sharing a burden that way takes off much of the pressure. But don't go blabbing endlessly about your troubles.

And then, just as you would in looking after your physical health, learn to recognize the signs when some help is needed. And again, as with physical health, accumulate an understanding of what can be done, and what can't.

Bumpy Car Ride Holds Up Train

HULL, Que. (CP)—Elva Doreen Ford of Ottawa must have wondered why the road seemed bumpy as she drove through Hull Sunday night.

She was driving her small car down a railroad track, with both front tires flat.

Miss Ford, 24, held up a Montreal-to-Ottawa train for 15 minutes as she rattled down the half-mile stretch of CPE track.

In police court Monday she pleaded guilty to a charge of impaired driving. The escapade cost her $100 and costs, and a three-month suspension of her driver's licence.

treat for Canadian individuals or corporations.

And he did nothing to diaphragm the speculation Monday when he said outside the House:

"At times when there is still an appreciable amount of unemployment and we know that large numbers of people are being added to the labor force in the next few years, I think these are not the times when you should reach for an exact balance."

MUST WAIT — But Canadians won't know for sure what's in store until Mr. Gordon rises in the Commons April 26 at about 8 p.m. to begin reading his budget speech.

He announced the date of the budget Monday, saying it would be "subject to emergencies and barring accidents."

This was a reference to the forthcoming vote on the acceptance of the throne speech—a confidence issue which could technically defeat the government. It is considered unlikely.

There are many well-informed persons who say a tax cut can be justified on economic grounds at this time, and there is even more agreement that they can be justified on political grounds, with the possibility of an election in the months ahead.

Among the economic arguments are these: The Economic Council of Canada says that if Canada is to absorb the mushrooming increase in the labor force, she must have an effective increase of at least 5½ per cent each year in GNP until 1970.

While this rate was easily surpassed in 1964—even with the increased costs included in the 8.9 figure—there are many economists who doubt whether the council's goals can be achieved without additional encouragement.

MOST EFFECTIVE — Tax cuts are considered to be the fastest and most effective form of encouragement.

Lowering the tax rates for corporations, and individuals, has the effect of pouring more money into the economy, thus creating greater expansion and more employment.

Life in Outer Space?

theory has been borne out by observations at the British radio astronomy station at Jodrell Bank.

Latest British observations show the source is smaller than any known source of radio emission in the universe, Tass said.

NO EVIDENCE — (But at Jodrell Bank Monday night, a leading British astronomer, Reg Lancelotti, said the station has no evidence to support the Soviet theory.

"We would want to look over the evidence a lot more before we could come to an opinion," he said.)

NEW OBJECT — Professor Shklovsky of the Sternberg Astronomical Institute in Russia declared that at least a completely new type of cosmic object has been discovered in the galaxy, but did not rule out the possibility that it may be the remnant of a supernova, a gigantic exploding star the size of our whole solar system or bigger.

Dr. E. Harvey Richardson, astrophysicist at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory on Little Saanich Mountain, pointed out that some radio astronomers in Russia are not prepared to agree definitely that the radio signals are not natural.

He said: "There are many signals, some periodic, all from natural causes."

Dr. Richardson said much more would have to be learned about the new radio signal before informed comment could be ventured here.

for the calendar year 1964—a measure of the value of all goods and services produced rose 8.9 per cent over 1963 to $17,003,000,000. It was the highest gain since 1956.

The white paper, a stage-setter for the new budget, said the economy as a whole should move forward to new and higher levels of activity in 1965.

Not included in the budgetary figures was the old age security fund, from which old age pensions of $75 a month now are paid to everyone aged 70 and over. This fund showed a surplus of $64,000,000 in 1964-65, compared with a deficit the previous year of $38,000,000.

Combining the budgetary and non-budgetary old age security fund, the government's accounts showed a deficit of only $18,000,000 between over-all revenues of $8,000,000,000 and expenditures of $8,100,000,000.

This was a gap of only 0.2 per cent in balancing the books.

Other features of the white paper:

● Personal income taxes, biggest single revenue producer in federal accounts, yielded $2,100,000,000, up 13 per cent from 1963-64.

● Corporation tax income climbed 19.9 per cent to $1,510,000,000.

● Sales tax revenues rose 26.1 per cent to $1,187,000,000.

● Defence spending was down 8.2 per cent to $1,581,000,000 and represented 21.9 per cent of budgetary spending.

● The gross debt of Canada at March 31 was $26,640,000,000, including unamortized debt of $18,983,000,000. The net debt was $15,549,000,000, up $479,000,000 for the year.

Your Good Health

Keeping Troubles Bottled Up Leads to Emotional Upheaval

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

(This is the first of a series of articles dealing with new ways for increasing mental health, and the significant changes that are taking place in the treatment of emotional illness.)

Important changes are taking place in the treatment of emotional problems.

I wish someone would invent a better term for it, but that's the best I know. Mental health is a good term except that it leaves too many of us with a feeling that it is a vague sort of thing, like physical fitness, good for everybody but not applicable to us.

The word psychiatry is excellent except that it raises images of insanity, mental hospitals, or lying on a couch to be psychoanalyzed.

ALL OF US — Most of us think "it doesn't apply to me."

We're wrong about that — it applies to all of us.

There never has been a completely healthy person. Even if it is no more than chickenpox, head colds, or an upset stomach, we all encounter some illness on our way through life.

The same is true of our mental health. Who among us hasn't had at least a taste of emotional impacts that upset us? Worry, anxiety, nerves, jittery? Or an episode of crushing grief, or frustration or anger or resentment that made us react in ways we don't ordinarily do?

SAME PROBLEM — Whether it's a mother who can't seem to help screaming at her children for every little thing, or the man who can't turn down a drink, or the paranoid, who thinks the whole world is against him, and in retaliation sometimes kills someone, it is all a problem of mental health, or the emotions, in one degree or another.

This is what I want to discuss in these next columns. Our mental health needs looking after, and understanding the same as our physical health.

This should be done just as matter-of-factly as we guard our physical health. It starts with the rule of not worrying unless there is something to worry about.

BASIC RULES — We have certain simple rules of physical health: Get enough rest, eat a reasonably adequate and balanced diet, avail yourself of such protective measures as have been discovered, vaccinations, pasteurized milk, refrigerated food. And so on.

Emotional health is built on parallel basic ingredients: Keep busy and interested, but learn also to relax and play. It is a human need to love and be loved. Have some faith in the world and the people in it — but don't be a sap about it. Don't let anger fester, or frustration overwhelm you. Don't waste time in hating.

UNDERSTANDING — It's pointless to say don't worry, but learn not to wreck your emotions worrying about things that may never happen, or to spend your days fretting about things that can't be helped. And don't keep your troubles bottled up too tight or too long. Talk things over sensibly at times with someone close to you. Sharing a burden that way takes off much of the pressure. But don't go blabbing endlessly about your troubles.

And then, just as you would in looking after your physical health, learn to recognize the signs when some help is needed. And again, as with physical health, accumulate an understanding of what can be done, and what can't.

Defence Contracts

Strike Halts Projects At Canadair

MONTREAL (CP) — Work on several major North American defence contracts ground to a halt Monday as Canadair Limited was hit by the first strike in its 20-year history.

A company spokesman said at least two multi-million-dollar contracts could be endangered if the walkout continues for any length of time.

More than 3,100 production workers launched the strike at midnight Sunday at Canadair's suburban St. Laurent Plant to back demands for higher wages.

NO DISCUSSIONS

No union-management discussions were held during the day and a company spokesman said he knew of no plans for any negotiations.

The walkout culminated a lengthy negotiating session between Canadair and Local 712 of the International Association of Machinists (IAM). There is a substantial difference in their positions.

The final company offer called for a three-year contract with wage increases ranging from 13 to 23 cents an hour and flat payments of $50 to $120 to cover the negotiating period which started last October.

NUCLEAR SUBS

The employees, who now average $2.22 an hour, demanded a 2½-year contract with wage boosts of 24 to 28 cents an hour for skilled and semi-skilled workers respectively.

A company spokesman said work on a hull valve contract for United States nuclear submarines and a parts contract for the American TEX super-sonic fighter both were affected by the walkout. He said the main U.S. contractors have expressed concern over the possibility of a lengthy delay in production.

Among the other major contracts on which Canadair has been working are completion of the CP-104 Starfighter order for NATO mutual aid.

King Makes Trouble — Truman

NEW YORK (UPI) — Former president Harry S. Truman, walking and talking on the 20th anniversary of his ascension to the presidency, Monday described Negro civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. as a "troublemaker."

Mr. Truman, now 80, delivered some of his customary peppery remarks while walking with reporters in city streets. He came to New York from his home in Independence, Mo., to accept today the freedom award at the 25th anniversary dinner of Freedom House.

One of the newsmen reminded Mr. Truman that Dr. King, head of the Southern Christian Leadership conference, had received a Nobel peace prize.

PUBLICITY SEEKERS

"I didn't give it to him," Mr. Truman said.

Mr. Truman said the civil rights movement, in which Dr. King is one of the most prominent Negroes, had "good leaders" as well as "publicity seekers." He did not elaborate.

Mr. Truman described the Ku Klux Klan as a "no good outfit" which should be outlawed.

Asked when he enjoyed his happiest moment in the White House, Mr. Truman said:

Berlin Wall Passed By Throngs

BERLIN (Reuters) — Thousands of West Berliners streamed Monday through the Communist-built border wall into East Berlin with special Easter passes.

The start of the two-week series of visits — fourth since the wall was built in August, 1961 — dispelled fears the pass agreement might be cancelled in reprisal for the meeting of the West German Bundestag (lower house) in West Berlin April 7. More than 10,000 West Berliners crossed into East Berlin by mid-afternoon, many of them laden with chocolates and other gifts.

Saskatchewan Not Ready For Tapping

REGINA (CP) — Legislation allowing police officers to record telephone conversations in gathering evidence in criminal cases will not become law at the present session of the Saskatchewan legislature, Attorney-General D. V. Heald said Monday.

Mr. Heald, in an interview outside the assembly, said while he thought the legislation, the Wire Tapping Prevention Act, was "good legislation" the principle was "a new concept in the idea of a search warrant" in that the person involved would not be aware of the action being taken against him.

Rare Tory Support

Liberals Survive Creditiste Test

OTTAWA (CP) — The minority Liberal government breeze through its fourth confidence test of the new session Monday, drawing rare Commons support from 32 Conservative MPs.

The House defeated 126 to 32 a Creditiste non-confidence motion that sought to censure the government for failing to increase basic income tax exemptions to $5,000 for married taxpayers and $2,500 for single persons.

QUICK VOTE

In an unusual development, the motion reached a vote as soon as it was introduced by Lucien Plourde (Quebec West). This prevented other opposition parties from agreeing on strategy and splits opened in the Conservative and Social Credit ranks.

The motion was opposed by 78 Liberals, 32 Conservatives, 12 New Democrats, three Social Credit members and one independent, Leon Balcer (Trois-Rivieres).

High Water For Winnipeg

WINNIPEG (CP) — Heavy rain and a rapid run-off of melted snow have not yet caused any threats of flood in the Winnipeg area, officials said Monday.

In north-central United States, however, heavy rain on frozen ground brought a sudden increase in run-off with flood warnings out for Red River points.

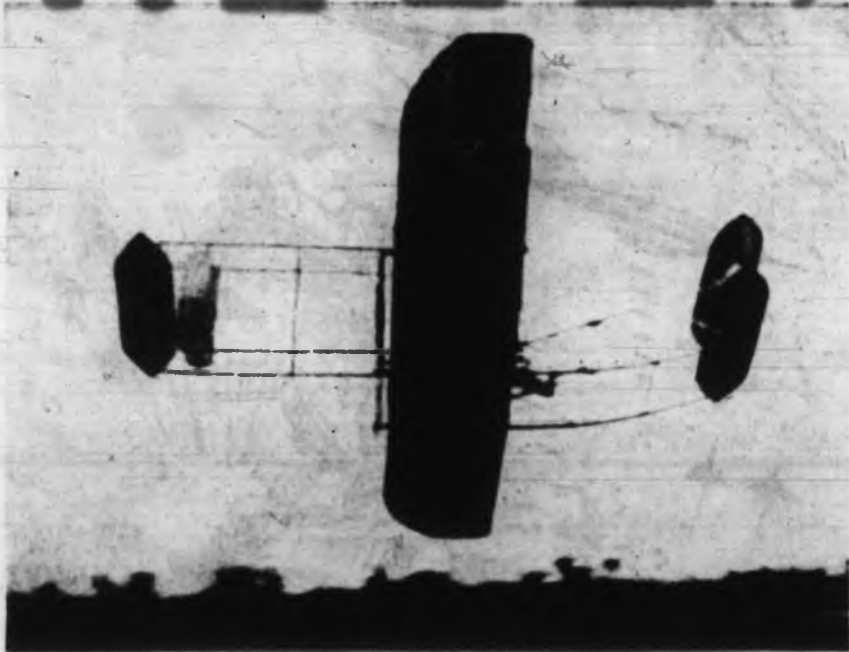

Agriculture Minister Hutton said in the legislature rapid melting snow and heavy rain in the Red River watershed likely would cause some local flooding in Manitoba this spring. He said it is expected the peak would hit Winnipeg April 25 but would not likely extend beyond the natural banks of the river.

Wreckers Uncover Rare Wright Film

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Crane Orville Wright with two of his operator Wesley Carter looked first flying students. Another into the pile of rotting, yellowed newspaper, then shouted to his fellow wreckers to stop work.

He had found negatives of some rare pictures of the Wright Brothers, the Dayton bicycle mechanics who pioneered in aviation.

Carter, of Battle Creek, Mich., found the negatives in the old newspapers between the ceiling and second floor of a building being wrecked for an urban renewal project.

"I picked them up and the newspaper disintegrated into dust," Carter said. "Then I looked at one of the negatives."

"It was a picture of one of the first airplanes built by the Wright Brothers."

Foot-by-Foot Search Will Comb Okanagan

KELOWNA (CP) — RCMP said they will start a foot-by-foot search today for a man charged in the shooting of a young girl and a police officer Saturday.

An air and ground search began Saturday through the ranch land and orchards surrounding this Okanagan Valley.

RCMP said they have laid two charges of attempted murder against Russell Spears, 38.

Road blocks were established on major routes in this area, while mobile patrols continue to check others.

Police said Monday they hope to have a search force of 35 men to help bring in the wanted man. Const. Neil Bruce of Kelowna RCMP detachment, was reported in good condition in hospital after lung surgery. He was shot in the chest when he went to a cabin at nearby Westbank to investigate the report a girl was being held against her will.

The girl, identified as Beverly Charest, 17, of nearby Lumby, was reported in satisfactory condition in hospital, suffering bullet wounds to the jaw and chest.

Untroubled Gordon

ALTHOUGH 1964 was a record one for Canada in nearly every way, and total government revenues from all tax sources were up $513,000,000, the fast-receding dream of a balanced budget has not been achieved.

Finance Minister Walter Gordon, whose national balance sheet is contained in the White Paper presented to the Commons Monday, and whose budget speech is scheduled for April 26, has, however, trimmed the national deficit to $83,000,000 from his forecast of $155,000,000.

This is a happy state of affairs, but it is sobering nonetheless that in a year in which the gross national production rose by 8.9 per cent from the previous year—the biggest jump in nearly ten years—the country was still unable to pay its way.

Mr. Gordon, in a press conference following the tabling of his White Paper, admitted that the prospect of increasing the national debt did not worry him so long as the country's economy is expanding at a rapid rate.

Yet in the Commons Mr. Gordon had previously admitted he did not think the 1965 advance would be so rapid, and he placed the increase in the GNP this time at about five per cent.

One wonders how Mr. Gordon's argument that the increasing of the national debt does not matter so long as the country is moving ahead would work if suddenly the wave of expansion and prosperity ceased, even temporarily. The national debt inflated during the boom years, would remain as an additional burden, and could not be dismissed with an airy wave of the finance minister's wand.

It will also be noted that Mr. Gordon in referring to additional provincial and municipal claims on federal funds, and the government's own social and welfare expenditures said these would "rise at a moderate rate."

In view of his government's great new commitments on old age pensions, the new Canada pensions plan and the demands of Quebec, British Columbia and some other provinces, it would be interesting to have more precisely Mr. Gordon's interpretation of what "moderate" might be.

Mr. Gordon, not having suffered the difficulties of steering the country through hard times, may not subscribe to the well held theory that it is wise to build up funds from the boom years to provide a tax cushion for the lean years—which may or may not be in the offing.

He may be right. It is interesting to note that the Canadian national debt of $18,982 million is about equal to $1,000 per person, or little more than half the per capita national debt in the U.S. where everyone is "in the hole" to the government about $2,000 on a national debt of $312,000 million. On these grounds it may not be unreasonable to claim Canada's debt is not excessive.

Mr. Gordon appears to make it clear that is the way he thinks, and those who read into his remarks carefully will probably come up with the conclusion that the finance minister is paving the way for a tax-cut election budget.

What's a Billion?

CANADA'S LATE, lamented and longest session of Parliament, which ended 13½ months after it began, piled up the corpses of Hansard hip-high to one of those giant-size basketball players.

Into the 13,192 pages of the official report of debates, the legislators by our calculation poured something like 9,900,000 words. Most people have difficulty visualizing millions of anything. But one measure of the quantity of wordage in Hansard for the session is that it would fill nearly 1,500 newspaper pages in type of the usual size and without headlines; another is that printed in a single newspaper column it would be more than four miles long.

And yet a surprising thing about this enormous procession of oratory, of question-and-answer, of angry thrust and parry, of learned discourse and sometimes petty bickering, is that it works out to just about half a word each for the people of Canada.

To think that's all the way we have in the way our country is governed! And what, we wonder, was our particular half a word?

But there's another little statistic that makes nearly 10,000,000 words look still smaller—much, much smaller; that almost lends some justification to the unfortunate, careless question that in his time won Mr. C. D. Howe a certain notoriety: "What's a million?"

While the MPs, in sitting after long sitting, were placing this much talk on record, the federal government was spending around nine billion dollars—about $900 for each word they spoke.

Looking at that stack of Hansards, we can only say that a billion must be an awful lot of dollars.

Oak Bay 'Superiority'

DR. CARTER, speaking on fluoridation, as reported in the Colonist, stated: "We also have the highest number of educated people in Oak Bay."

This surely seems a gratuitous and unwarranted insult to the worthy citizens of the other Greater Victoria municipalities, to whom an apology is due.

What exactly are his terms of reference for this statement?

We peasants and proletarians beyond the "Tweed and Crumple Curtains" appreciate the cultured classes within the boundaries of Oak Bay and wish them all they wish for themselves, but fail to see how any specific area of Victoria can claim such a measure of superiority in all the qualities that make for a well-rounded education.

As he states, "The ants will be and," could be that the "ants" in this particular contentious problem are not so far "off the beam" as its protagonists.

"This could lead to war..."

Washington Calling

A Pause to Look and Listen

By MARQUIS CHILDS

PRESIDENT Johnson has taken a long step toward persuading opinion around the world that the United States does not want to expand the war in Viet Nam.

The speech at Johns Hopkins was wonderful. But since it has been given, its broad sweep should convince all but those who prefer to believe otherwise that the United States is willing to go a long way to restore peace and well-being to a shattered land.

Whether the proposals the president has made for a broad program of aid have come in time is the nagging question. Attitudes have hardened on both sides. Bombing in the North has contributed to the hardening process, as have such acts of savage terrorism as the attack on the American embassy in Saigon.

The president said that he believes that while air strikes alone will not achieve the preservation of an independent Viet Nam, he considers them a necessary part of "the surest road to peace." That was one of the extraordinary things about the speech—both the words and the doves had on taming.

The final score will not be known for some time. Whether what amounts to a hand held out directly to North Viet Nam, far more specifically than in the hint of a week previous, will meet with a response is the great uncertainty. Part of the peril of this moment is that Hanoi is a great unknown.

The idea of a TVA in the Mekong Delta has been around for many years. The potential has always been there for uniting the peoples living in that great rich area if only the impetus had come in technical and economic assistance.

Steps are being taken now that could have made a world of difference only a short time ago. A team of five specialists from the rural electric co-operatives in the United States are going out to Viet Nam to conduct a study on whether a similar co-operative electric system is feasible there. They will spend 90 days determining where light and power can be brought to Vietnamese farms, as it was in America.

One may say better late than never. The president could not have found a better man to inaugurate an aid program, which he says is to begin at the earliest possible moment regardless of the war, than Eugene Black. As former head of the World Bank he showed not only imagination but a true respect for the realities of development in underdeveloped nations. Black will inspire confidence that this is not to be a crash propaganda program.

The White House makes clear that negotiations can go on without a cease-fire and without pre-conditions. To this last there is one exception—there will be no negotiation with the National Liberation Front, which presumes to speak for the Viet Cong guerrillas in South Viet Nam. Red China's premier, Chou En-lai, has conveyed word through the United Nations Secretary General, U Thant, that the only possible negotiation is with the Viet Cong.

The American view is that since the direction of the war in the South and most of the material aid comes from the North, the only possible negotiation is with Hanoi. It comes down, therefore, to whether Hanoi is an independent power or whether it is under the authority of Peking. The answer should not be long in coming.

If Peking calls the tune, accord with Chou En-lai's dictum, then the war will go on to the bitter and relentless end. The airfields around Hanoi are the next immediate target. The interval of waiting for a possible response from the North may not be long.

But apart from the future course of the war, a statement to the world on America's intentions was essential. The latest doubt of America's position in Viet Nam came from a significant Asian source. The stoutly pro-Western government in Japan sent a senior diplomat, Shunichi Matsumoto, to survey the situation. He returned to Tokyo with the chilling word that the Viet Cong rebellion is primarily not a Communist movement and that the war cannot be won by military means.

The John Hopkins speech is in part an answer to the allegation that the United States seeks to win by military might. The president stood alongside the 17 non-aligned nations in their recent appeal for a peaceful settlement of the Vietnamese conflict. He was careful to use the phrase "peaceful settlement" and to avoid reference to negotiation. It has remained the official view that no one is visible to negotiate with.

The United States has been drawn a long way down the road to a larger war in Viet Nam. This is at least a pause to stop, look and listen.

English-Speaking Immigrants

Stampede to Verwoerd

DRESS pictures of three British immigrant railway shuttles, plus beer, sandwiches and families, camping in their communal offices, have prompted other British immigrants to South Africa to assure Premier Dr. Verwoerd publicly that they are happy to be in his republic.

The English-language papers carry their testimony in letters almost daily now, for smear-by-association is one of the facts and fears of life in South Africa today. The technique is the well-tried one of confusing the part with the whole: the Students' Union becomes subversive because two former presidents were of a sabotage organization; the British government's refusal to supply Buccaneer aircraft to South Africa produces a reputation for Britain as a demagogue; or else... So, by extension, the shuttles' criticism of the government becomes treason.

Of the 40,000 settlers who came to this country last year, more than half are British; over 12,000 from the United Kingdom and nearly 13,000 from Rhodesia and Zambia. Only about one per cent of the republic's recent immigrant intake from Britain have returned home.

Dr. Verwoerd has reason to be pleased with his new flock, despite the fear of his Nationalist press that too many English-speaking immigrants would add strength to the Opposition numbers. Nothing could be further from the facts. Afrikaans classes for the newcomers are three-quarters filled with eager English-speaking men and women, learning such homely phrases as "this is coffee," along with "this is propaganda" and "the opponent is a rebel."

A random group gathered in a coffee bar after such a class produced some frank comments which, to judge by the letters to the press, seem to represent immigrant opinion as well. One of the group was a sales manager, another an ex-colonial district commissioner, a third, a friendly little man, a works foreman from the West Country, and his plump typist wife. There was a sour young man in photography, and a shop assistant from a local chain store.

The sales manager declared: "I'm for the white man, and when I get the vote I'll vote for Verwoerd. My wife feels the same way as I do. And anyhow, the native is better off here than anywhere in Africa... he earns more... he has better housing."

The West Countryman challenged that: "Not if you compare his pro-ata earnings with the earnings of the white man here and in the other African countries. But let's be honest. Apartheid is immoral, and we're not behaving like Christians, but if the Nationalists say to me, 'vote for me' and the United Party (Opposition) says 'vote for me' what'll I do? I'll vote for the Nats. Why? Because I think Verwoerd is the only man who can keep things as they are."

The taciturn man in photography was for apartheid, with reservations: the government's policy of separate schools for English and Afrikaans he believed to be "a sin." He also believed in Bantustans (separate territories for the Negroes) "up to a point. Perhaps the government is committing a cardinal sin in the way it is carrying out this policy, and job reservation and group areas."

The Congo was never far behind this talk. "Look at The Congo... give the blacks the vote and you'd have the same mess here... there's no trouble in South Africa because the white man's boss... they can't run anything... it would be suicide."

Long hours of radio propaganda have clearly taken their toll of the British immigrants.

Today in History

By The Canadian Press

Thomas Jefferson, the American statesman, was born 222 years ago today—in 1743—in Virginia. He was a member of the Continental Congress and the Virginia legislature and drafted the American Declaration of Independence. When U.S. minister to France he was invited to help the French Revolution draft a republican constitution. He became in turn secretary of state and president of the United States, 1801-1809. Jefferson was one of the world's great liberals and one of the few early American believers in mass democracy.

1852—Frank Winfield Woolworth, inventor of the dime store, was born.

1934—The Australian government gave asylum to Vladimir Petrov, a Russian MVD agent employed in the embassy in Canberra.

First World War—Fifty years ago today—in 1915—an unexplained explosion demolished buildings near the Royal Navy base at Lerwick, Scotland; German reinforcements checked the Russians at Usak Pass.

Second World War—Twenty-five years ago today—in 1940—the British battleship Warspite, escorted by destroyers, sank seven German destroyers in the second battle of Narvik Fjord.

General von Falkenhorn, German commander in Norway, demanded acceptance of German "protection" on pain of death for further resistance.

Past Has Its Place

The New Jerusalem

By ERIC NEWBY

ONLY in the New Jerusalem, the capital, can one begin to understand the aspirations of the Israelis, their extraordinary diversity and the pressures to which they feel themselves subjected.

The new city is entirely sealed off from the old, which is in Jordanian territory. It is an arrangement that benefits neither nation.

There is something eerie about one's first sight of the battle-ment western wall of old Jerusalem, with its blocked-up gate, its domes and towers and the trees in the gardens of the Argentinian monastery sprouting up behind it.

It is eerie for there is no sign of life going on behind it, except when the sun catches the field glasses of a sentry in one of the Jordanian lookout posts. It is like some gigantic film set from which the extras have departed.

Just to the south of Allenby Square, where the Israeli houses nestle under the walls, the little streets are either sealed at one end or else placarded: "Danger! Frontiers Ahead!" Here begins the real no-man's land, which leads southwards, down past the Jaffa Gate, to the great, empty water-cistern, "The Pool of the Sultan."

To the west of it, facing the walls on the side of the valley is the first suburb of the New Jerusalem—Yemin-Moshe, founded under Turkish rule in 1880 by Sir Moses Montefiore in what was then open country. In its alleys, the huge-eyed children play hopscotch and tip-cat on the beautiful warm afternoons of early spring.

Close by is the Vale of Hinnom, which curls downhill round the southern wall of the city; only the upper part is in Israeli territory. Above it is Mount Zion, in a salient of the frontier, close to the southwest corner of the walled city and separated from it and the Gate of Zion by a no-man's land of Armenian and Latin burial grounds, stained now, in the spring, with dark red anemones and white with narcissi, to be glimpsed furtively through bullet holes in rusty iron doors.

Here, on the mount, within a labyrinth of courts, is the stone tomb of David, venerated by Muslims too, on which rest the great silver crowns of the Torah (the law). The Jews lean towards the tomb yearningly, grasping the railings which separate it from the place of prayer, the small, green room in which they stand.

To escape the feeling of constriction go westwards in the direction in which the city is developing, to the high, olive-clad hills. The magnificent campus of the Hebrew University, with its synagogue like a great white egg, is built on a long white-back ridge some 2,500 feet above the sea, and testifies to the strength of the Jewish love of the homeland which exists far beyond the area—the George and Florence Wise Auditorium, the Argentine Friends Nuclear Physics Laboratory, the Philadelphia Friends Building for Organic Chemistry, the Canadian Friends Law Building. Even in the great library, which is also the national library, the very shelves are given by somebody, and that somebody is named on a little plaque.

The student population, drawn from some 50 countries, has increased nine times, the number of teachers six.

It is a memorable experience to visit one of the synagogues, to listen to the reading of the scriptures in unison, to watch the rhythmic, rocking movements of the worshippers, to observe the man who carries the staff to them, and to relish the sight of people who are so individual that they are exempt from military service—some do not even recognize the state at all. They are a minority, a far cry from the tough, free-thinking girls and boys of the kibbutzim and the university, but they, too, have shown a remarkable capacity for living as well as dying.

At Yad Vashem, close to the hilltop tomb of Herod who foretold the future of Israel, is a "monument and memorial" to the 6,000,000 who were destroyed. A concrete blockhouse, its walls are supported on huge boulders and it is entered through spiky bronze doors. Inside it is almost dark. At first, coming in from the sunshine you can see nothing but a single flame and a vast black floor. Cut in it, are the names of the places, so innocuous in themselves, so terrible by association, some known to all, some perhaps to the Jews alone or to those who have troubled themselves with such matters: Theresienstadt, Maidanek, Chelmno, Belzec, Sobibor, Babi-Yar, Ravensbruck, and so on.

In the permanent exhibition that one comes to afterwards, there is a collection of photographs of an indescribable poignance, the title of which is "The World Which Was and Is No More," and a reconstruction of a Warsaw sewer, which has a peculiar significance for young Israelis as being one of the few places where the Jews turned and fought. They who themselves have fought and are prepared to fight again cannot understand why those who died allowed themselves to be led tamely to the ovens.

Bidding for Rich Trade

Falls, Lions and Roulette

By RICHARD HALL, from Lusaka

AS planes fly faster and pack-ages holidays make distant places cheaper to reach, Africa is starting to become big business in the tourist trade. Last year, Kenya made more than $30 million from holiday visitors—mainly Americans on quick "all-in" tours of the game parks.

Now a big drive is on to exploit Africa's greatest natural wonder, the Victoria Falls on the Zambezi River. A few years ago the Victoria Falls seemed impossibly remote, but today the big jets can reach Central Africa from London or New in less than a day.

Travel agents believe the falls are a good prospect; if the wealthy in search of something really splendid and exotic can be lured as far as Kenya, why not entice them another 2,000 miles? There are game parks all around, not to mention the weird Barotse tribal dances and the world's biggest man-made lake, Kariba.

So now the battle of Victoria Falls has begun in earnest, with two countries rushing to develop facilities for tourists. The boundary between Rhodesia and Zambia runs down the middle of the Zambezi River and thus down the middle of the falls. Rhodesia announced this month that it is to build a major airport on its side of the river.

A private company is starting work at once on a $1,000,000 hotel and casino, with the aim of being ready for business by Christmas. Gambling equipment will arrive in May and a French instructor will start training locals as croupiers. Significantly, the American Twenty-One will be available as well as roulette, chemin de fer and baccarat—all within earshot of lions roaring in the African night.

(Copyright, 1965, by Richard Hall)

On the Zambian side, the sleepy pioneer town of Livingstone has but a few mediocre hotels and an airport capable of taking medium-size jets. The idea is that the Boma should land at Zambia's capital, Lusaka, 250 miles north of the falls, where a big international airport is now being constructed.

The first white man ever to see the falls was the missionary David Livingstone, who named them after his queen. Pondering on the mile-wide torrent he wrote in his diary: "Scenes so lovely must have been gazed upon by angels in their flight."

It is difficult to imagine what words the devout Scot would have used to describe a floodfall where croupiers cry and bourbon cascades on the rocks.

With the Classics

In the fell clutch of circumstance
I have not winced nor cried aloud.
Under the bludgeonings of chance
My head is bloody, but unbowed.

Beyond this place of wrath and tears
Looms but the Horror of the shade,
And yet the menace of the years
Flings, and shall find, me unafraid.

It matters not how strait the gate,
How charged with punishments the scroll,
I am the master of my fate:
I am the captain of my soul.

—William Ernest Henley.

Firm with Long Title Runs Short on Profits

By HARRY YOUNG Colonist Business Editor

Western Pacific Products and Crude Oil Pipelines Ltd. is probably the pipeline with the longest title, but it ran short on profits in 1964 when it had net earnings of $1,069,917 (64 cents a share). This compared with $1,870,545 ($1.08) in 1963.

The company, which derives all its business from the delivery of petroleum products from the Peace River area to the Trans Mountain Pipeline at Kamloops, was hit by the drop in B.C. oil production in 1964.

This fell to 10,550,000 barrels from 11,551,000 barrels in 1963, caused mainly by the conversion of one out of eight producing wells in the Boundary Lake area into water injection wells.

Douglas Owen, Western's president, says the drop is only temporary and that the increased flow from the remaining Boundary Lake wells and discoveries made this winter make it likely that B.C. production by the third quarter of 1965 will be back to its 1963 level.

It was this optimism for the future that caused Western Pacific to continue its $1 a year dividend payments during 1964, although only 64 cents a share was earned.

Forty-eight per cent of Western Pacific shares are held by Westcoast Transmission.

MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Limited fell short by one cent of making $2 a share in 1964, when its sales were up 18 per cent from the previous year and the net earnings rose by 13 per cent.

Net earnings were $4,400,567 ($1.99) against $3,600,000 ($1.76) a year ago, and sales were $412,200,000, up 18 per cent from $345,000,000 in 1963.

Of these, 75 per cent were made in foreign countries, making MacMillan the largest integrated exporter of forest products in Canada.

While the net profit is higher than it has ever been, it would have been larger still but for two non-connected disruptions which happened during 1964 in the Alberta operating area.

The first of these was the March 28 tidal wave which did considerable damage to the company's property, and the second was a seven-week stoppage through strike action.

During the year, MacMillan adopted the straight-line method of charging depreciation and discarded the reducing balance method which has been in use since 1949.

The change made no difference to the current tax liability and will make no material difference to net earnings in the current year.

Depreciation, depletion and amortization charges, however, rose to $29,007,429 in 1964 against $22,000,000 in 1963.

The biggest increase in 1964 business was in the pulp and paper section whose sales rose 28 per cent.

Newspaper sales were up 14 per cent, and J. V. Cline, chairman, said that the company's sales in this commodity had risen following the reduction in the price of newspaper by $10 a ton.

Management was satisfied that the right step had been taken and the company's new-point mills were expected to operate close to capacity this year.

"The Economic Council and the Investor"

Under this title, the current issue of our "Investment Review" shows how and why facts contained in the first annual report of Canada's Economic Council are of special interest to investors. In setting goals for 1970, the Council has clearly indicated patterns of growth. These patterns, in turn, suggest areas of the economy in which major advances are likely to develop.

Our article takes note of these and then relates them to industries for which they have important implications. Further, the article includes informative surveys of eight key companies operating in these industries.

World Pilgrims Fill Jerusalem

JERUSALEM (UPI) — The holy places of divided Jerusalem today attracted thousands of pilgrims from around the world.

By a rare coincidence of the calendar, the Christian Holy Week falls at the same time as the Jewish Passover and the Moslem Feast of El Adhw.

Good Friday — one of the holiest of Christian days — will be celebrated this week on the same day that Jews begin their annual Passover observance.

Pope Paul

marking the exodus of the Israelites from Egypt.

In Vatican City Sunday, Pope Paul VI opened Holy Week on a sombre note. He said current world conditions shake his faith in the ability of man to prevent war.

PALM SUNDAY

Thousands of worshippers walked in a Palm Sunday procession in Jordan's old city of Jerusalem, carrying palm branches along the route once followed by Jesus, the ceremony commemorates Christ's triumphal entry into Jerusalem before his crucifixion.

In the Israeli sector similar observances took place after church services in the Christian centres of Jerusalem, Nazareth, Jaffa and Haifa.

Services in Jerusalem's Benedictine abbey on Mount Zion included a blessing of palms and olive branches and a procession to the church for mass.

Thousands of pilgrims walked along Pope Paul VI Avenue in Nazareth to attend services.

In Vatican City, the pontiff carried his own palm, nearly three feet long, in a procession with 1,000 Roman youths carrying the symbolic peace branches to Palm Sunday mass in St. Peter's Basilica.

The pontiff addressed a crowd of 50,000 tourists, Romans and Holy Week pilgrims in St. Peter's Square after the ceremony.

Martin Says:

Health Staff Recruitment Successful

B.C. is carrying on an intensive and successful campaign to recruit professional staff for regional mental health clinics, Health Minister Martin said Monday.

Canadian Mental Health Association officials who claim the government isn't trying hard enough to get trained staff are "criticizing indiscriminately," the minister said. He advised them to bring themselves up to date on what the government is doing.

"There is an acute shortage of psychiatrists, psychologists, psychiatric social workers and other professional staff," said Mr. Martin.

"But B.C. has managed to obtain many of the staff required and this is due to our intensive recruitment campaign."

The minister said growth of mental health clinics in B.C. was one of the most progressive developments in the field on this continent.

DOING ALL IT CAN

The provincial government is doing all it can to encourage general hospitals to provide in-patient psychiatric facilities, but it is finally up to the hospitals, Mr. Martin said.

"We cannot order a hospital to provide psychiatric facilities," he said. "But we can and do offer substantial construction and equipment grants as well as B.C.H.S. coverage for the patients."

Mr. Martin said CMHA should work more closely with the government in providing the best possible mental health facilities in the province. "This must be our common goal," he said.

Municipalities

Special Report Started

A white paper on municipal growth in B.C. over the next few years will be published by the department of municipal affairs this summer.

Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell said the booklet will spell out problems arising from municipal growth throughout the province and outline new administrative procedures.

He has ordered an emphasis on information and education in all department operations.

TAKEN OFF

Senior officials in municipal affairs have been largely taken off administrative duties, said Mr. Campbell, so that they will have more time to contact municipalities throughout the province.

A preliminary pamphlet, prepared by the department to explain new legislation passed at the last session, will be distributed at the end of this month.

AVAILABLE

It will be available to any group which wants to understand better the legislation covering joint services and model towns.

"By the end of June we hope to have a quite definitive work setting out all the problems of growth faced by our municipalities in the next few years," said Mr. Campbell.

FLEXIBLE

Explanations of the new legislation will stress the flexibility of new administrative procedures, the minister said.

It will be a public relations effort, designed to set out in "some kind of digestible form," means of solving literally dozens of problems raised by municipalities and small groups throughout the province.

Bonner Says:

B.C. Needs Markets For Gas

New export markets for B.C. gas are of vital concern to local consumers, Commercial Transport Minister Bonner said Monday.

Without export markets there would be no B.C. consumers of natural gas because the demand would not have justified the cost of constructing a pipeline from northern natural gas fields, the minister said.

And unless B.C. obtains bigger markets for its natural gas, both abroad and at home, there will be no chance of slashing per unit cost to a point where local consumers will get cheap gas, said Mr. Bonner.

ASKED ENERGY BOARD

It was with this factor in mind that B.C. last week asked the National Energy Board to rule that there should be two major export sources instead of only Alberta, as at present.

Mr. Bonner, back from Ottawa where he testified for nine hours before the national board, said it has been conclusively proved that B.C. has sufficient gas reserves to enter the major export markets of the southwestern U.S.

$47,000,000,000

Canadian Production Soars With 8.9 Per Cent Boost

OTTAWA (CP) — The Dominion Bureau of Statistics announced Monday the gross national product-total value of all goods and services produced in Canada—rose 8.9 per cent last year to $47,003,000,000.

It was the largest annual advance since 1956. The new GNP figure represented output value of $2,443.62 for every Canadian — man, woman and child. This was up $171.13 from the 1963 per capita GNP of $2,272.49. GNP that year was $43,007,000,000.

The bureau said the increase was 6.5 per cent in terms of constant dollars, and prices were almost 2.5 per cent higher. There was an upsurge in the first quarter of the year, sparked by the government's winter house-building incentive program, accelerated purchase of some capital goods in anticipation of higher sales taxes, and large wheat sales to Russia. The pace of expansion was more moderate during the rest of the year.

The strongest forward impetus came from the investment sector. A wide range of industries made major new expenditures on plant and equipment, and housing construction reached new records.

"Consumer markets were buoyant," the bureau said.

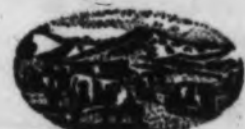

Students Strike

SANGUDO, Alta. (CP)—The 150 students at Sangudo High School went on strike Monday because they say they want a sidewalk.

No students attended classes but about 100 of them marched down Sangudo's main street carrying placards which read, "Cheap country—won't give us sidewalks." "Sick of walking through mud."

U.S. Foreign Policy A Danger to Peace

By ALLEN BACKMANN
WINNIPEG (CP) — United States foreign policy was mirrored Saturday as an unholy marriage of economic assistance and military might by Mulford Q. Sibley, University of Minnesota political science professor who was the centre of a controversy here last month when barred from Canada by immigration officers.

He said economic support of dictatorial governments in the context of military strength antagonizes the people and drives them to other ideologies.

The U.S., he said, had over 30,000 "military advisers" in Viet Nam but is losing the war because of its support of dictatorial form of government.

MATTER OF TIME: "It is only a matter of time," said Prof. Sibley, a pacifist and Quaker, "until the Americans will either voluntarily retire from South Viet Nam or will be forced to do so."

He told the 400 persons attending the Voice of Women-sponsored lecture that by bombing North Viet Nam, the U.S. is not only breaking international law but is helping to reunite China and Russia.

ACTIONS IMMORAL: "Recent American actions have thus not only been illegal and, in terms of destruction, immoral, but they have been grossly inexpedient from a political point of view."

Prof. Sibley said U.S. foreign policy is based primarily on an "anti-communism" ideology which differentiates sharply between the free and Communist worlds. This has been joined with a policy of providing economic aid as well as accumulating military strength.

INADEQUATE: These policies, he said, are increasingly inadequate and if not drastically changed, present a danger to world peace.

He added that other major powers are subject to the same criticisms made of U.S. policies.

While the U.S. was pursuing its military strength policy, it also supported the United Nations and economic measures to "stabilize the world."

DOMINATE VOTING:

"At the same time, it is not unimportant to note that the U.S. and its allies have dominated the UN in the voting and that at the time of the Korean War, they used the machinery of the UN to attempt to achieve American objectives in Korea under cover of universal objectives."

Prof. Sibley criticized U.S. political officials for providing assistance to dictatorships and suggested there is greater hope for democracy in Communist Yugoslavia than in the dictatorship of Portugal.

EXPENSES HIGHER

Woodward's Stores Ltd. made a net profit of $4,674,174 ($1.38) in the fiscal year ended Jan. 21, 1963. This represented a gain of 6.13 per cent over the previous year's $3,110,005 ($1.35).

C. N. Woodward, chairman, said sales at $162,394,146 were up 11.3 per cent. The opening of new stores at Victoria and Kamloops had contributed to the higher sales but not to the profit because of the expense of opening them.

Four Boys Buried by Lillooet Rockslide

LILLOOET, B.C. (CP)—One boy was killed and three were rescued Sunday night when a wall of rock gave way near this community.

RCMP and nearby residents dug through tons of rubble to rescue three of the Indian boys. Randy Johns, 13, was found dead.

Perry Jacob, 11, Irvine Doss, 10 and his brother, Steven, 12, are in hospital here with multiple fractures and bruises. Hospital officials said they are in fairly good condition.

They were buried almost an hour. The boys had climbed the side of an old washout and a 20-foot high section of rubble gave way and crashed down on them. A passing motorist heard the boy's cries for help and summoned aid.

Hospital Reopens For Ailing Boy

BRETON, Alta. (CP) — The general hospital in this community 50 miles southwest of Edmonton, closed since March 31, reopened suddenly Sunday night when the grandson of a hospital board member was stricken with convulsions.

Dr. E. R. Dixon, the town's only doctor, who resigned last month after a dispute with the board and had since been refused hospital privileges, was called in to treat the boy.

The board closed the hospital, which serves a district of 9,000 people, after Dr. Dixon's resignation. It hired another doctor, M. S. Bhavnani, who started his duties Monday.

At a citizens' meeting Friday, about 170 of Breton's 550 residents demanded an election to decide on a new board to replace the present six-man body.

Despite Red Harassment

Queen Still Plans Trip to Berlin

BONN (AP)—Britain's Queen Elizabeth is still planning a trip to Berlin despite the Communist harassment of the city last week, the West German government indicated Monday.

President Heinrich Lübke's office released the program for the Queen's 10-day state visit. The May 27 appearance in Berlin was not cancelled.

There were demands in Britain

A delegation met Alberta Health Minister J. Donovan Ross Monday to present a petition asking for an election.

Nick Raczk, present board chairman, when told of the petition, said: "If that's the people's wish, that's okay with me."

that the Queen's visit to Berlin be called off because of the events last week.

Communist planes repeatedly buzzed the city and the East Germans shut down the autobahn to West Berlin almost daily to demonstrate their displeasure because the lower house of the West German parliament, the Bundestag, met in West Berlin.

EAST BERLIN (Reuters)—An East German government spokesman Monday refused to give a direct assurance that Communist jets would not fly over West Berlin or in the Berlin air corridor when Queen Elizabeth visits the city.

Simple Monument Dedicated to FDR

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Franklin D. Roosevelt died 20 years ago Monday and a shock-wave of grief circled the world. Monday some of his friends dedicated a monument to him on a little triangle of land about midway between the Capital and the White House.

The monument is small and simple, as he wished.

And it is located where he wanted it—near the National Archives Building on busy Pennsylvania Avenue—"avenue of the presidents."

It is the capital's first monument to the man who served as president longer than any one else—12 years and 40 days.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Hal Dornan, a speech writer for Prime Minister Pearson, testified Monday he refused to carry "a threat" to Mr. Pearson.

Mr. Dornan was the first witness at a preliminary hearing in North Vancouver into two forged charges against publicist Al Williamson.

The charges are that Williamson forged a letter ostensibly from Premier W. A. C. Bennett of British Columbia to Mr. Dornan, and that he tried to make Dornan act upon the letter as if it were genuine.

TRIAL BY JURY
Williamson has elected a jury trial.

Mr. Dornan said Williamson phoned him Jan. 7 at a Vancouver hotel, saying he wanted to discuss with him the case of millionaire Harry Stonehill, who wanted landed immigrant status.

He said Williamson told him Stonehill wanted to tell the press his side of the matter and Williamson felt the story should go to Time magazine.

REFUSED REQUEST

Mr. Dornan said Williamson told him the story "could embarrass the federal government, and that for that reason he, Mr. Williamson, had wanted to get in touch with me to give me an opportunity to contact the prime minister, who was then holidaying in Florida, to let him know there was a danger of this publicity breaking."

"I told him I certainly would not carry a threat like that to the prime minister, and he and Stonehill could talk all they wanted."

Stonehill, who came to Vancouver after being asked to leave the Philippines where he amassed a fortune, has been denied immigrant status.

SHOW GRATITUDE

Mr. Dornan testified he received letters from Williamson who said he wanted to show gratitude in "a substantial way" to Mr. Dornan and to Raymond Denis, former executive assistant to former immigration minister Rene Tremblay.

Mr. Dornan related a conversation he said occurred between himself, Williamson, and Denis in Ottawa last July.

CASH MENTIONED

He said that during the conversation Denis had remarked: "Isn't it too bad he (Stonehill) wouldn't invest in us."

Mr. Dornan said Denis had mentioned an amount of $25,000 or $30,000.

Mr. Dornan said there were a few minutes of embarrassed silence and then he commented he found it hard to differentiate between Quebec politics and Quebec humor.

KEY FIGURE

Denis is a key figure in the Dornan inquiry into political scandal surrounding allegations of bribery in the case of narcotics suspect Lucien Rivard.

Mr. Dornan testified he was contacted later in January of this year by Ed Ogle, of Time magazine, while in Austin, Texas, where he accompanied the prime minister to a meeting with President Johnson.

He said Mr. Ogle placed a call to Williamson in his presence, and told Williamson that Mr. Dornan would not give him an affidavit to back up the story Williamson had given Time.

NOT LISTENING

Mr. Dornan said he took the phone and when told Ogle was not listening on an extension, Williamson told him he was delighted that he (Mr. Dornan) would give no affidavit, and that Williamson and Stonehill would prefer to see the whole thing drop.

Press Talks Resumed

VANCOUVER (CP) — Negotiations resumed Monday aimed at settling a contract dispute between Pacific Press Limited and members of the International Typographical Union (CLC). Pacific Press prints the Sun and the Province newspapers here.

Burning Rectal Itch Relieved In Minutes

This Special Hemorrhoid Remedy Contains a Unique Healing Substance That Relieves Pain As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

One of the most common afflictions is a condition known as "itching piles". It is most embarrassing for the sufferer during the day and especially aggravating at night. If you want satisfactory relief—here's good news. A renowned research laboratory has found a unique healing substance with the ability to promptly relieve the burning itch and pain. It actually shrinks hemorrhoids. This substance has been shown to produce a most effective rate of healing. Its germ-killing properties also help prevent infection. In one hemorrhoid case after another "very striking improvement" was reported. This improvement was maintained over a period of months! Among these sufferers were a wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions—even cases of long standing. This was accomplished by a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—developed by a world-renowned research institution. This substance is now obtainable in ointment or suppository form known as Preparation H. Ask for Preparation H Suppositories (convenient to carry if away from home) or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Available at all drug counters. Satisfaction or your money refunded.

Johnson's Toss Opens Major League Season

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

President Lyndon Baines Johnson threw out the first ball Monday and ushered in another major league baseball season. President Johnson's traditional toss got the Washington-Boston game started and then the chief executive watched the Red Sox pour five home runs and hammer out a 7-2 victory.

Lennie Green hit two homers and Felix Mantilla, Tony Conigliaro and Lee Thomas chipped in with one apiece as Billy Martin's Red Sox thrashed the Senators.

The Chicago Cubs came from behind twice and settled for a 10-3 win with the world champion St. Louis Cardinals in a game called by Cardinals after 11 innings. Ernie Banks three-run homer with two out in the ninth erased a 9-6 St. Louis lead and then, after the Cardinals had scored a run in the top of the 11th, Ron Santo tied it again with a double. San Francisco's Juan Marichal and Pittsburgh's Bob Veale engaged in a pitcher's duel with Bob Bailey's 10th inning homer breaking it up and giving the Pirates a 1-0 victory over the Giants.

Two-run homers by Jerry Lumpe and rookie John Sullivan lifted the Detroit Tigers past the Kansas City Athletics 6-2. Detroit got strong pitching from starter and winner Mickey Lolich, a left-hander who won 18 games last season, and right-hander Larry Sherry, who went the last three innings.

Richie Allen drove in both Philadelphia runs with a home run in support of Chris Short's four-hit pitching as the Phillies shut out the Astros 2-0, marking their first new $31,600,000 domed stadium.

A capacity crowd including Ford Frick, NL President Warren Giles and 24 of America's 28 astronauts watched the game.

The New York Mets 6-1. Willie Davis, who had three hits, also homered for the Dodgers.

Wings, Canadiens Can Wrap It Up

The Detroit Red Wings and Montreal Canadiens can move into the National Hockey League Stanley Cup finals with victories Tuesday, but they'll have to overcome their opponents' home ice advantage to do it.

Both Detroit and Montreal hold 3-2 game leads in the best-of-seven series but are away from home Tuesday against Chicago and Toronto, respectively, to continue their semi-final series in which every game has been won by the home team.

Chicago and Detroit both will be below par for their meeting. Hawk centre Phil Esposito has aggravated an old back injury and winger Kenney Wharram is suffering from a bad knee. However, Bobby Hull, the Hawks' bloody bomber, appears completely recovered from his mid-season injuries and is performing in top form.

Detroit Coach Sid Abel is hoping that the series won't go home Tuesday against Chicago and Toronto, respectively, to continue their semi-final series in which every game has been won by the home team.

back to the Motor City Thursday. He said that Doug Barkley had sustained a concussion Sunday night and his condition for Tuesday night's game was questionable.

After the three games, Worsley played it pretty hard to make a change," Blake said.

Although the Leafs are on the short end of the 3-2 edge in games, Punch Imlach, Toronto's mentor, was coaxing confidence. He pointed out that the Canadiens held a similar advantage last year but the Leafs rallied to defeat them.

"The Canadiens aren't good enough to win in Toronto," Imlach declared. "You can put that in because I want them to know it so they'll be at their very best."

"We won Tuesday and Thursday last week and we'll do it again this week," he concluded.

It was his fifth goal of the series and gives him nine points, one less than Hull. Hawks twice held the lead, Ted Lindsay tying the score, 1-1 in the first period after Eric Nesterenko had opened the scoring.

Popular Tenpin Spiel Draws 396 Bowlers

Ninety-nine teams, 16 from out of town and an overall increase of 19 over the inaugural event, will take part in the second annual Vancouver Island Tenpin Bouspiel. Co-sponsored by The Daily Colonist and Mayfair Lanes and set to start at Mayfair Lanes on Friday morning at 10:30, the bouspiel has in two years become largest tenpin tournament on the Island with its 396 bowlers.

Big reason is the bouspiel format adopted from curling in which teams of four bowlers play out on a progressive draw. An improvement from curling is that bowling provides a handicap to even up matters for bowlers of average, or even less, ability. Individual averages range from the 190 sported by Ken Bell, Nanaimo zone champion, down to 99. Team handicaps for each three-game match range upwards from the 157 for Bell's team, Nanaimo's Caribbats, to the 678 for Northwestern Securities.

This encouragement has resulted in an increase in the distaff entry. Forty-five of the 99 teams have one or more women bowlers, including eight who have distained the help of even one male, to make a total of 100 ladies entered.

Alley Cats, who lost their first game last year then made good use of their 491 handicap to go unbeaten the rest of the way and win the Mayfair event, are back intact. Joyce Camausa, Jerry Hale, Frank Hong and Ted Rodway bowl this time with a 466 handicap.

Peggy Trickett and Len Parsons are back with Amalgamated Roofers, winners of the Gar's Trophies event last year. Replacing Dot and Chuck Bennett are Joan Luscombe and Jim Mills.

Also intact the second time around is last year's runner-up in the Colonist event, Charlie Cowie has Rudy Christ, Alex Pearson and Bob Manchester under the colors of Speedway Motors.

Teams will bowl through Saturday and Sunday and the bouspiel will end Monday evening with the prize presentations and the wind-up party to follow the finals.

First two draws for each team follow. More games will be scheduled on Saturday at 1:30, 6:30, 8:30 and 11 p.m. All bowlers should check for the time of their third games after bowling their second.

Jean Avent Wins Combined Crown

Flashing to victory in both the slalom and downhill competitions, Courtney's Jean Avent captured the women's combined title Sunday at Green Mountain in the Vancouver Island ski championships.

The slalom was taken in 30.9 seconds and she came back to cup the downhill in 34.7 seconds for a combined total of 147.6 seconds. Mary Theriault of Courtney, who placed second in the slalom, was second in the combined with Donna Saunders of Victoria third.

BEEL WINS
Men's combined title went to Courtney's Don Beel with an elapsed time of 138.6 seconds for the two events. He was second in Victoria's Brian Saunders in the slalom. John Naim of Courtney from the downhill.

In junior competition, Laura Schulz of Courtney won both

Victoria hockey fans who believed—and it seemed with good reason—that they had seen the last of the Maple Leafs last Friday, can buy their tickets to see them again starting tomorrow morning.

Capping one of the big comebacks in Western Hockey League history, the determined Leafs ploughed their way into the playoff final on Sunday night, turning out Seattle Totems, 4-1, in Seattle.

It was the third victory in three nights over the disappointed runners-up, who looked as if they had a lock on the chance to play Portland Buckaroos for the Lester Patrick Cup after taking a 3-1 series lead with a rather handy 5-3 win here last Tuesday.

And, so, it's at least two more games for Victoria fans with every chance for three at Memorial Arena.

Arguments over dates for the final, which started when the Leafs won the fifth game in Seattle Friday and continued until yesterday morning, were finally settled yesterday afternoon.

DATES PICKED
The first game will be in Portland tomorrow night, the second here on Saturday night, the third in Portland on Sunday night. The next two games, if the series isn't a 4-0 romp for either club, will be in Victoria the following Wednesday and Saturday.

If more games are needed, they will be played in Portland. A combination of the spectacular goalkeeping of Al Miller and a dogged checking chore right down the line to help out a defence which has been spearheaded by the fine play of Fred Hucul, again carried the Leafs to victory Sunday.

BOUNCES BACK
Miller, feared lost through an injury sustained in last Friday's game, was spectacular many a time on Sunday, particularly in the second period, as he came up with more of the "big" saves which have kept his club climbing off the mat each time it seemed that "ten" was about to be tolled.

He yielded once in the second period, and that was it. In the final three games, he allowed but three goals—one in each game in 3-1, 2-1 and 4-1 victories which were in doubt until late in the game and which could have ended in defeat with as much as one slip.

QUICK GOAL
Leafs increased the uncertainty that became evident in the Totems' play here Saturday by scoring after only 25 seconds of play to really put the pressure on a club which seemed to have acquired a premonition of defeat.

And it was the old Totem-craver, Lou Jankowski, who opened the scoring. Fred Hucul started the play right after the first faceoff, fed off to John Slevator, who carried across the Seattle blueline before backhanding a pass to Jankowski, cutting in from the left side.

Jankowski went by Jim McLeod, then backhanded in from his 16th goal of the season, third in the playdowns, against the Totems.

Just over two minutes later, Gordie Redahl took a pass from Jankowski, got around defenceman Mo Mantha and flipped a backhander over McLeod as the Seattle goalkeeper came out to try and cut the angle.

Perhaps a bit cautious as they set out to protect their lead, the Leafs lost the initiative in the second period and the Totems hopefully came to life—and had their hopes dashed by Miller.

MANY TICKETED

Miller made 18 stops in the middle 20 minutes, many of them ticketed, and didn't yield until too many Leafs went after slippery Guyle Fielder, who took advantage of the chance to set up Bill MacFarland for an easy goal.

Bill Shvets was in the penalty box at the time, serving his second penalty of the period, and things got a bit itchy when Claude Labrosse caught referee Bruce Hood's eye just after MacFarland's goal.

BREATHING ROOM

But the Leafs and Miller held out and Milan Marcetta provided a bit of breathing room by scoring after getting a pass from Rolfe Wilcox, who pulled a defenceman after getting the puck from Dunny Belisle.

Belisle made it official less than seven minutes from time with the 4-1 goal.

This is the fourth time a Victoria club has reached the playoff final and the Leafs will be seeking a second Victoria win over Portland when they head for the Rose City tomorrow morning.

FULL COMPLIMENT

And they hope they will go with a full complement of players ready to play. Larry Keenan, whose marking of Fielder was a highlight of the successful semi-final, is expected to be able to play.

Keenan was hurt on his first shift Sunday, injuring a knee when he came together with Seattle defenceman Don Ward. Keenan returned to the ice briefly but sat out the third period. His place was taken by Dick Lamoureux, who proved to be a fine replacement.

SPALDING BLACK DOT

the most un-cuttest kind of all

The BLACK DOT... a tough ball. Built for the golfer who hits the ball harder than average but sometimes gets off a bad shot. The longest hitting, longest lasting ball you can find. Its secret: isoprene windings stretched as far as the official rules will allow. Plus the Poly-miracle Balata cover, the most un-cuttest kind of all.

A very important question. Better consider it slowly and thoughtfully—over a glass of Old Style. While you're meditating, note the flavour. Bold, forthright. Yet there's nothing rough about it, is there? On the contrary, natural aging has made it mellow and mature. Gentle, in fact. That's it! Suddenly, the answer is clear and you realize... you're happy. This calls for another Old Style!

Ordinary. Out of the ordinary.

We took the body off this Volkswagen 1500 to show you. Let's start at the back. With the engine. What's out of the ordinary about it? Everybody knows we're famous for air-cooled engines in the rear. We made the 1500's engine more powerful. And so flat it fits right into the back of the car and still leaves room for a luggage compartment. (And that leaves you with two trunks. There's no engine in the front.) Now notice the chassis. The floor is one solid piece of metal. Covers the bottom of the VW 1500. So nothing hangs down, and gets damaged. By rough weather. Or rough roads. And even though we made the VW 1500 for families, you don't drive it like an ordinary family car.

You sit on a comfortable bucket seat and shift through four fully-synchronized gears on the floor. Take a look at that suspension system up front. Inside that black metal tubing there's a torsion bar connected to each wheel. And it's the same idea at the back. Every wheel in the VW 1500 is independently suspended. So a pothole for instance, jars only the wheel that goes over it. Not the whole car. And everybody in it. We even put an anti-sway bar up front. With the result that the 1500 tracks around a bend just about like a Porsche. Why not visit a VW dealer and discover all the 'out of the ordinary' things about the Volkswagen 1500? He may not take a car apart for you. But he'll let you drive one.

Nicklaus
Tops List

AUGUSTA (AP)—The $20,000 Jack Nicklaus earned Sunday for winning the Masters golf championship shot him to the top of the Professional Golfers Association official money winning list with a total of $34,400 for the year.

Doug Sanders, who tied for 11th to win $1,550, dropped to second place from first with $30,707.78.

The new top 10 after the Masters payoff:

1. Jack Nicklaus, $34,400.
2. Douglas Sanders, $30,707.78.
3. Billy Casper, $21,948.
4. Bob Charles, $19,006.
5. Dan Sikes, $17,516.
6. Sam Snead, $16,100.
7. Bruce Devlin, $15,995.
8. Arnold Palmer, $15,740.
9. Bert Weaver, $15,640.
10. Gary Player, $15,000.

Golden Bear
Stands Alone

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Jack Nicklaus, blond young Goliath with awesome power, won his second Masters title Sunday by nine shots with a record-shattering 17-under-par 271 and established himself firmly as golf's new super-star.

It was a slaughter.

The 210-pound "golden bear," a comparative babe of 25, climaxed one of the game's great all-time performances with a final round 69 and an unprecedented margin over his two fellow members of the big three, Arnold Palmer and Gary Player.

LEFT NERED

The world's finest golfers and the massive, demanding Augusta National Course — 6,980 yards of frustration and elusive par 72—were left numbed by the impact of the big Columbus, Ohio, man's assault.

Nicklaus' rounds of 67-71-64-69-271 cracked by three shots the record 274 which Ben Hogan set in 1953.

The previous largest winning margin in this tournament, which lures the world's best players, was seven strokes—the gap by which Cary Middlecott captured the title in 1955.

On his closing round, Nicklaus went one over-par once—at the fourth hole for the first time in a stretch of 29 holes—and had four birdies. He missed other birdies by inches.

BIG START

At 25, Nicklaus already has won two Masters—his first in 1963—the U.S. Open, the PGA and the national amateur twice before he turned pro.

The young Ohion has everything going for him—strength, youth and confidence.

With bull-like shoulders and heavy hips, he hits the ball higher and farther than any golfer who ever lived. A low, meticulous player of the Hogan stripe, he is a superb iron player and putter.

Nothing Left For Mickey On Fairways

DALLAS (AP) — Mickey Wright, one of the greatest women golfers, has decided this will be her last full year on the tour.

After 1965 she will be playing only a few tournaments a year, Miss Wright said Sunday night. In the fall she will enroll at Southern Methodist University, majoring in business administration.

In 10 years as a professional Miss Wright, 29, has won about $180,000, 13 tournaments in a single year, $31,600 in a year, shot a 62 and had a stroke average of 72.46, all women's records.

"There just isn't anything left to accomplish in golf," she said.

crowds of the season and a fair boost in the bank account. United drew 815 spectators who dropped $530 into the collection plate Sunday, and the Victoria club thanked the fans by beating Vancouver Columbus, 2-0, at Royal Athletic Park.

In October, United drew $50 for a Sunday game with North Shore.

Firefighters Move Near League Title

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver firefighters took a major stride toward retaining their Pacific coast soccer league championship Sunday by defeating rival Vancouver Canadians 1-0.

DeCosta saved off Barry Ithas's feet, centre-half Bill Hamilton headed an Errol Crossan shot off the goal-line, and Stoithard cleared a drive by Bobby Smith.

Victoria's second goal came with just five minutes left in the match. Ced Robb forced Columbus centre-half Gene Vaz-zoler to concede a corner, and Dunc McCaig curled the resulting kick directly into the goal.

Columbus' Steve Djoric was sent off by referee Jack Adams for protesting too vehemently that Robb had fouled goalie Csaba Kondor when the latter went for McCaig's corner.

Djoric had been cautioned earlier in the match for his rather excited appeals.

Outside-right Barry Ithas, a pick star and sprinter, was the pick of the Vancouver side, while Russ Ball, Bill Hamilton and DeCosta were close behind Stoithard as United standouts.

Pro Football Plans New Winter League

DALLAS (AP) — Tex Schramm, general manager of the National Football League's Dallas Cowboys, said Saturday night that the NFL has been considering a plan that would present live pro football from the January to May period.

Schramm's revelation of the NFL's plan came after the Dallas Times-Herald said in its Sunday edition that plans are being made for a new nationwide pro league that would be tailored for the spring season — and the television cameras.

The newspaper said the cities in the new league would be Houston, Atlanta, New Orleans, New York, Miami and Anaheim, Calif. The new league is being organized by Dave Dixon of New Orleans, who long has sought a professional franchise, and would be known as the United States Football League.

Schramm said he knew of Dixon's plans but that he had known of the NFL's plans for a similar setup for considerably longer.

Bat Bites Boy: Rabies Suspected

COURTENAY — A young, unidentified Courtenay district boy was bitten last week by a possible rabid bat, health officials disclosed Monday.

Dr. G. A. Gibson, director of the Upper Island health unit, said the bat was captured and sent to the UBC animal pathology laboratory.

He said preliminary tests showed "high suspicion" of rabies and the boy was started on a course of vaccination against rabies.

Rabid or suspected bats were found last summer in three Island districts, Youbou, Parksville and Denman Island in this area.

Dr. Gibson said bat rabies is "very definitely on the increase" and the public should "take the greatest care" in approaching sick animals.

He said bats especially should never be handled and pointed out a bat has to be sick if it allows itself to be caught.

The director said parents should see that their children are aware of this danger.

Campbell Pushing Plans For Model Townsite

By IAN STREET
Legislative Reporter

The government is pushing ahead with all possible speed in the creation of a model community at Gold River on the west coast of Vancouver Island.

Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell said Monday letters patent for the new community are being drawn up by his department.

The new community, eight miles from the present logging community at the head of Muchalat Inlet, will be the first of the government's model towns to be created from scratch.

Mr. Campbell has just returned from a study of Manitoba communities in transit from company towns to open communities.

He said B.C. will insist on local participation from the beginning in the new communities, to avoid problems arising from the creation by private enterprise of communities later handed over to local authorities.

He said the first couple of years of development at Gold River had been considered largely a construction phase.

The department has learned, however, some residents of the present community plan to build homes on the new townsite without delay. The site is being cleared.

This will give immediate ownership participation in the affairs of the new community.

IWA Rejects Labor Council

Victoria Local 1-118, International Woodworkers of America, will not join the Victoria Labor Council.

Members of the 1,500-member local decided unanimously not to re-affiliate "at this time."

Union spokesmen declined to give reasons.

A lack of political action at the time the New Democratic Party was being formed caused the woodworkers to leave the council in 1961.

Canadian Labor Congress executive vice-president Joseph Morris had asked the union to reconsider following his recent visit to Victoria.

The Song Is Over

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—Rosario Villa Hernandez and his friend, Eduardo Cardenas Brito, were serenading their girl friends Sunday night when a stranger said: "Your singing is awful. You should devote yourself to something else."

They ignored him and went on with their serenade.

The stranger shot them both, killing Cardenas and wounding Villa Hernandez.

Island Division

Victorian Leads Navy League Unit

NANAIMO — Denis Brown of Victoria was re-elected president of the Navy League of Canada's Vancouver Island division during the annual meeting Saturday.

Also re-elected were Mayor Les Hamner of Port Alberni as first vice-president and Jerry Bishop of Victoria as treasurer.

Howard Webster of Campbell River was chosen second vice-president and Lyle Wilkinson of Victoria was appointed divisional secretary.

Representatives from Victoria, Shawnigan Lake, the Cowichan area, Nanaimo, Alberni, Comox and Campbell River attended the meeting.

Next major activity for Island sea cadets will be a visit by 30 boys to HMCS Naden in Esquimalt May 15 and 16.

Big Hunt Suspended For Fishboat Crew

JUNEAU, Alaska (CP) — The U.S. Coast Guard suspended its search during the weekend for the eight men aboard the 61-foot Vancouver halibut boat Sea Ranger in the Bering Sea.

Four planes and four vessels searched a 3,000-sq.-mile area before the hunt was suspended. Officials said it would be resumed if developments warrant.

but added there was little doubt the vessel had gone down.

The eight included William J. Henry, whose mother lives at 1206 Fairfield in Victoria, and former Nanaimo resident William McCullough.

A lifeboat and other debris from the Sea Ranger were found near the Aleutians late last week. The Sea Ranger is believed to have been caught in a sudden storm.

Murders

Spur Strike

NICOSIA (AP) — Thousands of Greek-Cypriot workers went on strike Monday to protest the murders of a pro-Greek Turkish-Cypriot trade union leader and a Greek-Cypriot colleague, Constant Mishaoulis.

A Cyprus government statement said there was no doubt Dervish Kavazoglu, the Turkish-Cypriot, had been murdered by Turkish-Cypriot terrorists because he opposed the Turkish-Cypriot leadership and was an outspoken supporter of peaceful coexistence for the Greek and Turkish-Cypriot communities on the island.

Kavazoglu, 40, and Mishaoulis, 39, were shot Sunday near Louroujina, 15 miles south of Nicosia.

Esquimalt Council

'Beware Gimmicks'

Esquimalt councillors were warned to beware of gimmicks during consideration of grants at the council meeting Monday night.

The remark by Coun. Gerald Horne was made after a request by the Victoria Symphony Orchestra for a grant of $3,014. Last year's grant was $300.

Coun. James Bryant suggested boosting the grant to $500.

Coun. Horne warned high grants were sometimes requested by organizations in hopes that council would boost the amount over the previous year's total.

He suggested the amount be left at $300. It was

The bureau proposed increase in business licence fees to provide funds for advertising.

Colwood Wants Firemen

Colwood residents could face a drastic tax increase unless at least half a dozen volunteer firemen are found, it was learned Monday.

C. H. Ridley, pro-tem chairman of Colwood Fire Protection District's board of trustees, said the community's 24-man fire brigade desperately requires daytime volunteers.

Fire Chief Richard Emery said the district has assumed a greater responsibility for controlling nuisance fires such as grass and brush.

HOT SUMMER

Chief Emery is expecting a hot, dry summer and consequently many daytime fire calls.

Mr. Ridley said that without the volunteers, the district may have to hire men, and "the mill rate would have to be drastically increased, possibly trebled."

The brigade is seeking men over 18 who are in reasonably good physical condition. Those interested may phone Mr. Ridley at 478-1125.

Esquimalt Teachers Win Awards

Two teachers at Esquimalt High School have been awarded more than $7,000 in scholarships. Awarded a teaching assistantship valued at $2,400 and fees at the University of Alberta in Edmonton is Ronald MacGregor.

A teacher at Esquimalt since 1961, he will use the scholarship for study leading to his master's degree in education.

Receiving a research assistantship valued at $3,200 and an $800 scholarship at the Ontario College of Education of the University of Toronto is L. D. Karagiannis.

Mr. Karagiannis, a teacher at Esquimalt since 1961, will use his scholarship for study leading to an education doctorate.

Saanich Moves On McKenzie

Saanich council's public works committee Monday began action to extend McKenzie Avenue at its eastern end.

The committee recommended Saanich's land commissioner be authorized to obtain prices on privately-owned properties in the path of the proposed extension from Simon of opposite Ruby Road.

Piers Island Election Expected Next Month

Election of trustees to govern Piers Island improvement district will probably be held next month, returning officer Laurie P. Jones, 3332 Henderson Road, said Monday.

Three trustees are required. The candidate with most votes will serve three years, the runner-up two, and the third-place candidate one year.

The island, near Swartz Bay ferry terminal, serves as a summer-home community although there are a few year-round residents.

A public meeting will be called for the election, Mr. Jones said.

We're testing Gold Keg Beer on the world's toughest critics:

Englishmen.

We undertook Operation Gold Keg to find out how Englishmen would react to Canada's popular Gold Keg Beer.

Because, as everyone knows, Englishmen love good beer. If a Canadian beer can pass muster in England, it's good.

So we've airfreighted a cargo of Gold Keg to London, and we're touring the pubs. We're going to find out how Gold Keg stands up to such illustrious company as Bass, Whitbread's and Worthington's.

The first few tests have been wildly successful.

Englishmen tell us they love Gold Keg's delicious flavour and its fine amber colour. Some of them even said it was "smashing".

But we can't be satisfied till we've covered many more pubs. That's what we're doing now.

Further reports on Operation Gold Keg will follow.

Labatt's brews Gold Keg Beer from the finest imported hops and malts.

Observers Report:

'Flying Saucer'
Just an Airplane

A mysterious flying object seen Sunday night over Vancouver Island from Victoria to above Nanaimo was definitely a jet aircraft, several observers in Greater Victoria said Monday.

The immense, bright object triggered numerous calls to police and newspapers with reports of a flying saucer or meteorite.

D. A. Brown, 1691 Carnegie Crescent, pulled his car off the Malahat just north of Mill Bay after seeing the bright object.

MOON REFLECTION

He identified it as a U.S. jet, either a bomber or a jetliner, and said the brightness was caused by an unusual reflection of the full moon.

Robert Irish, 2195 Fernside, and Herbert Perry, 2340 Weiler in Sidney, watched the craft through binoculars between 7:30 and 8 p.m.

GREYISH COLOR

Mr. Perry, a former airline radio operator, called it an "unusually large military aircraft" flying 30,000 to 35,000 feet up and about 600 miles an hour.

It was a greyish military color instead of the normal silver. There were two bright lights on each wing and Mr. Perry suggested the pilot might have forgotten to turn them off.

PASSENGER JET

Mr. Irish felt it was a conventional passenger jet out of Seattle or Tacoma. He said it was travelling in the same direction and at about the same speed as the big U.S. airline jets which fly over his home regularly.

"I'm told these planes are from an American airline and are gradually climbing to higher altitudes as they fly out of Seattle-Tacoma airport," he said.

He spoke of one light at each wingtip, one at the end and a red revolving light.

Both U.S. and Canadian military sources said earlier none of their aircraft were in the area at the time and no civilian traffic could be traced locally.

Jury Rules Plunge
Was Suicide

An inquest jury Monday brought in a verdict of suicide in the death of Arthur Foulser, 72 Cadillac, who died after a plunge from a second-storey window at Veterans' Hospital where he had been a patient since last month.

The jury recommended that when a patient is admitted to the hospital he be informed that only the staff may open windows, and that the hospital staff be informed of this responsibility.

It also recommended that the haffle glass in front of the windows be secured with a device which would prevent their removal.

The jury said no blame was attached to the hospital or the staff.

Chain Letter 'Dupes' Victorians

Twenty Victoria residents have been "dupes" for a biblical chain letter, according to a woman resident who wishes to remain nameless.

She said her daughter, a university student, received a chain letter which promised dire consequences to any who failed to send it on to four friends.

The woman said there was a list of twenty names, all Victoria residents, on the chain letter; she contended these people had all been "intimidated."

The letter said "the one who breaks this chain will have bad luck."

It claimed one person received a sum of money, then broke the chain, then later lost the money.

The letter said the chain series had been around the world 20 times since originating in the Netherlands.

It exhorted the receiver to read a verse from the New Testament, Matthew 11:28.

This verse says: "Then began He to upbraid the cities wherein most of His mighty works were done, because they repented not."

A car was struck by an ambulance and former mayor Percy Scurrell crashed into the side of a house in two spectacular accidents which occurred here Sunday and Monday.

A Victoria ambulance on an emergency run to Royal Jubilee Hospital with siren screaming and red light flashing crashed into a car driven by Mrs. Elinore May Porter, 2880 Beach Drive, at 4 p.m. yesterday.

She was taken to hospital for a checkup, and it was reported that two doctors following the ambulance took the unidentified patient on to hospital after the crash.

This Trail

A trail of yellow discs may soon lead tourists to scenic areas of Saanich.

Council's public works committee recommended several hundred discs be installed at 50-foot intervals along the centre line of appropriate roads.

Reason for the move is to avoid confusion with yellow tour lines which many motorists mistake for the normal centre-line divider. The six-inch discs are affixed to the road by means of an adhesive.

The recommendation must go before council for formal approval.

Strait Turns
Technicolor

A technicolor sea between Dallas Road and Brothie Ledge in the Strait of Juan de Fuca early Monday had residents and tourists guessing.

But it was neither a prank nor tourist attraction.

The Canadian hydrographic services branch of the federal department of mines and technical surveys explained they had been testing red and green dye markers to help map ocean currents.

Queens Bring Blossoms
To Patients of All Ages

By TONY DILLON-DAVIS

Everywhere she went Monday, the Victoria Spring Flower Festival queen left a trail of flowers and happy smiles.

Queen Mariene Dudsworth and the Sourdough Queen, Donna Bigham of Skagway, Alaska, began a day of heavy touring activity with a visit to a local television station Monday morning.

From there, the queens visited children at Queen Alexandra Solarium.

PLEASED, EXCITED
"They were all very pleased and excited," Mariene said.

The two queens passed out the festival symbol—daffodils.

A Solarium spokesman said, "The queens were very sweet, very pretty, and everyone was delighted to see them."

UP IN MURDER

The queens then went to the veteran's hospital, where Mariene met a 97-year-old patient.

They may have been old but Mariene said, "They got up in an awful hurry."

Hospital recreation director Lt.-Cmdr. Ernest Cassels said it was "quite a thrill" for the patients.

ROBUST GUESTS

After the hospital visits, the girls were the guests of 1,100 men from B.C. and northern Washington, at the Rotary District Conference at the Empress Hotel.

Ed MacFayden of the Chamber of Commerce festival queen sub-committee, said "It was a most enlightening and heartening day with the queens."

"They did not miss one child in the Solarium. They sat and talked with every one, and gave each one a daffodil."

"They did a wonderful, bang-up job: It was the same at the Veteran's Hospital."

DONNA PRAISED

He said Donna Bigham, the Sourdough Queen, "was worth her weight in gold. She is certainly a wonderful representative of Alaska and the Yukon."

Today they will visit St. Joseph's Hospital, and Royal Jubilee Hospital, and then will open the art show in the McPherson Playhouse foyer.

Yarrows Gets Repair Work
On Holed Vancouver Barge

The 370-foot log barge Straits Logger, holed after running aground on the Island's west coast Friday, will enter Esquimalt graving dock Wednesday for repairs by Yarrows Ltd.

Owned by Straits Towing of Vancouver, the barge is the largest self-loading and dumping barge on the coast.

It ran aground after its towline parted.

It has a carrying capacity of 2,000,000 board feet of lumber. The barge was empty when it ran aground.

The $1,500,000 barge was launched last fall.

Applications for the submission of local applications for village attendance will be made within the next two weeks," Mrs. Fraser said.

The village will be in operation from July 15 to Aug. 15 under the direction of John Burgess of Kitchener, Ont., an experienced CISV director.

The village will be held here every two or three years, said Mrs. Fraser, and in "off-years" the local committees will sponsor trips by Vancouver Island youngsters to other villages in the world.

Cost of sending the children to and from the village will be paid by local chapters in the guest countries.

Four 11-year old children and an adult leader are expected

Vessel Launched
For Far North

A vessel destined for service at the mouth of the Mackenzie River in the Northwest Territories was launched Monday at Yarrows Ltd. shipyards.

The MV Frank Broderick was built for Northern Transportation, a crown corporation, and will carry supplies to isolated communities and RCMP outposts along the shores of the Arctic Ocean.

MOBILE CARGO

The $2,000,000 vessel is 225 feet long, has a 42-foot beam, and a depth of 22 feet, six inches.

Powered by twin 1,600 h.p. marine Diesel engines, the vessel has a double door in her bow opening onto a deck for mobile cargo in trucks, or packaged cargo.

Hull design innovations for high Arctic travel are, twin screws built into the hull, stiff ened bow for navigation in ice, and a wooden ice belt, which will act as a cushion.

Her forward deck space will provide a landing pad for a helicopter.

She will be manned by a crew of 15, and will operate for 2½ months each summer.

Residents at Gordon Beach were treated to an unusual sea thrill Sunday afternoon when what they took to be a sperm whale cavorted just 100 yards off shore for about 20 minutes.

Big schools of killer whales frequently pass by Gordon Beach, six miles beyond Sooke, and often they come close to shore, but it is seldom that any other species of whale comes so close to shore there.

Autopsy Shows Man
Pneumonia Sufferer

An autopsy performed on a man found dead in the harbor at the foot of Fort Street Sunday disclosed he was suffering from bronchial pneumonia.

Victoria Coroner Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre said Monday night the death was being regarded as accidental at the moment. A sample of the dead man's blood is being sent to Vancouver for analysis.

Police reports to the coroner indicated they believe Andrew Thymne, 50, of the New England Hotel, died after an accidental fall.

John H. Fuller, 38, Oxford Hotel, who pleaded guilty Saturday morning in city magistrate's court to intoxication in public place, told police he saw Thymne fall into the water late Saturday night or early Sunday morning.

Detectives photographed and carried away an empty wine bottle and a beach rock with hair adhering to it which they found at the scene.

Thymne's head had received a blow that inflicted a two-inch cut.

Police said there was no indication of foul play.

The Island village is the 68th established since the program was initiated in 1951. It is the second village in Canada, the first on the west coast of North America.

CHRONIC BRONCHITIS

BRONCHIAL COUGH, ASTHMA

Let It Rain!

A terrific way to look in or out of the rain. All-weather ensemble designed by Frank Adams in Galey & Lord's "Zugra," a Dacron and cotton fabric that resists wrinkling and repels water like a duck. Easter Colorful Easter traditions in the Netherlands, far from declining, have shown a spectacular revival since the second world war. Especially in the southern and eastern sections of the country customs, which during the period between 1900 and 1940 had all but died out.

For instance, Palm Sunday processions are steadily growing in popularity. Formerly held only in smaller communities, the colorful children's procession now also is staged in larger cities, including Amsterdam.

Different places stage their own traditional procession. According to the Frisian style in the far North children, instead of a palm branch (in fact more often than not an evergreen), carry sticks to which they have attached all the goodies they have collected from friends and neighbors. In the eastern-most provinces the so-called "Saxon" type of procession features a huge home-baked bread in the shape of a cracknel. One more deviation from traditional Palm Sunday processions is found in the middle-sized town of Deventer, where boys and girls each stage their own separate pageant.

It is a general custom in rural communities in the eastern and southern sections of the Netherlands that youngsters the day before Easter, announcing their advent noisily with songs and rattles, go the rounds of the neighborhood to collect eggs and money. The proceeds are then brought to the so-called "Easter Bonfire Committee," which in turn distributes the bounty to the needy.

In the same regions where Palm Sunday pageants are staged, Easter bonfires are the custom, which often are built on so called "Easter hills." Weeks in advance the young collect fuel in silent competition with neighboring communities to pile up the biggest stake of the region.

In Catholic areas the bonfire is lit by the village priest; in Protestant regions — where the custom is less popular — by the burgomaster or the eldest inhabitant. The singing of Easter songs around the blazing bonfire is exclusively done in Catholic areas. In some places dolls are burnt on top of the stake. This, according to folklore experts, is a remnant of paganism, the doll representing Winter which has to vanish with the advent of Spring. In other villages again this doll, adapted to Christian tradition, is believed to represent Judas, and is burnt as the image of evil.

Before the Christian era people used to celebrate the coming of Spring elaborately. The rites were aimed at making the land fertile for new crops. Three distinctly different rites were observed: large bonfires, the symbolic nature of the egg, and ritual dances. The Christian Easter celebration, held at about the same time of the year, replaced the pagan Spring festival. But curiously enough, these three pagan customs have withstood two thousand years of Christianity and can still be traced back today in more or less pronounced form in many countries of the Western world.

them for human strength and fertility. In Holland today, a popular and traditional Easter game is hiding eggs and having the children look for them to see who can find most.

Another Dutch favorite game is knocking hard-boiled eggs together. Two youngsters each take an egg in the hollow of their hand, the pointed side up. Simultaneously they will chant "one two three" and then knock the points together. The winner, the one whose egg has remained whole, gets the other's egg as well. This is allegedly another remnant of the old Saxon Spring custom of breaking eggs so that they would more easily bring fertility.

used to celebrate the coming of Spring elaborately. The rites were aimed at making the land fertile for new crops. Three distinctly different rites were observed: large bonfires, the symbolic nature of the egg, and ritual dances. The Christian Easter celebration, held at about the same time of the year, replaced the pagan Spring festival. But curiously enough, these three pagan customs have withstood two thousand years of Christianity and can still be traced back today in more or less pronounced form in many countries of the Western world.

EASTER EGG

The Easter egg is a good example of this. The ancient Saxons, ancestors of East Netherlands, used to scatter eggs all over the fields in the firm belief that they brought fertility to the land. The next day, they would pick up the eggs and eat

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: My daughter-in-law lives by "the book." "The book" tells her it is the son's duty to write to his mother. I agree, but don't you feel there should be another chapter in the book saying if a son doesn't write to his mother (most sons are too busy making a living) it is permissible for his wife to write about the grandchild?

I can't be a cookie-jar-type of grandmother because I am a working woman with very little money and less time. Eight hundred miles separate me from my son and his family. So, please, Ann, publish this letter and perhaps other daughters-in-law will see it and take note — even if my own daughter-in-law does not. — UNDER-PRIVILEGED GRANDMOTHER

Dear U.P.: I don't know what book your daughter-in-law is living by unless it's one she wrote herself. Rare, indeed, is the son who writes regularly to his mother. Usually the daughter-in-law gets the words down on paper and encloses the snapshots. In MY book this comes under the heading of being a good wife.

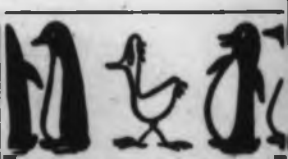

Perhaps your daughter-in-law hates to write letters. A telephone call every other Sunday (station-to-station at a mutually convenient time) could be the permanent solution to this problem — and I strongly recommend it.

Dear Ann Landers: Recently I tried for a scholarship and didn't make it. I did my best but my best just wasn't good enough. Both my mother and father have made me feel as if I am retarded or something. They asked me to explain why a friend of mine (they think he is a rockhead) got a scholarship and I didn't. My Dad said, "I just can't believe you aren't smarter than that dumb chick. What happened?"

I realize it is normal for parents to want their children to be outstanding, but we can't all make it. Please say something to take the heat off. Students in Japan commit suicide over less. — LOSER AT BATTLE CREEK

Dear Loser: There is entirely too much pressure on high school kids to excel, too much pressure to get into prestigious schools.

The student who does his best should not be made to feel like a failure. A grade of C may be more difficult for one student to make than an A is for another. I hold no brief for the goof-off who does poorly because he won't put forth the effort, but the kid who tried hard should be praised and encouraged.

Easter is youth. Perhaps the reason for this eternal youth is an association with youthful things—spring sunshine, scampering children, Easter bunnies, fluffy yellow chicks, Easter eggs and the first flowers.

You must have wondered how eggs and Easter bunnies came to be associated with Easter. Legend relates that Eostre, the European goddess of spring, from whose name the word "Easter" is believed to have been derived, had a beautiful pet bird which she changed into a rabbit so that this rabbit could tell children everywhere that spring had arrived. The forerunner of our Easter bunny had great difficulty in adjusting to his new form, so the story goes, and once a year on the first day of spring he would build a nest and fill it with brightly coloured eggs. That's how today's Easter Bunny performs the remarkable feat of laying eggs.

In the 2nd century, when Easter was already an established event in the Christian calendar, celebrations took a much more ritualistic form than they do today. On Easter Sunday there were lectures to be attended on the Exodus, the Passover, and the Death and Resurrection of Christ. The lamps were blessed and a bishop preached a sermon. The highlight of the whole ceremony followed—the confirmation of the catechumens and the celebration of the Easter mass.

The Romans, who were celebrating their New Year at Easter time, held elaborate ceremonies and wore gay, new clothes, believing that these would bring the wearer good luck throughout the year—and so the first Easter parade wound its merry way through ancient Rome and not along Fifth Avenue, New York City.

The egg, a symbol of new life and resurrection, has played an important part in Easter celebrations down through the centuries. The Egyptians, for instance, hung ostrich eggs in their temples, while the Persian sun-worshippers thought that the world had been hatched from an egg on the first day of spring. In the early Christian world eggs were forbidden during Lent and were then served on Easter Sunday. They were dyed red to suggest the colour of Christ's blood and His forgiveness and were sometimes blessed by the Church.

Another tradition of Easter was the belief that the sun danced round and round for joy on Easter Sunday and everyone would go up into the hills to watch this startling spectacle.

In England in the year 1300 "lifting" or "heaving" was the sport to play. The name was probably derived from the idea of Christ being "lifted" up into heaven. On Easter Monday a chair decked with brightly colored ribbons was carried around by the young men and each girl they met was challenged to sit in the chair and be lifted three times high over the heads of the "heavers". On Tuesday it was the turn of the men to sit in the chair and the women to lift him over their heads. They were rewarded with a kiss for their efforts—but this got out of hand. King Edward I rewarded his ladies of the court with 11 pounds—about $42—for their heaving.

Not only the nobility participated in the festivities however. The churches found the mood of the occasion most auspicious for replenishing the church coffers. They made their own brew of strong ale and sold it in the church-yard at Easter. A man could have a free shave there too—in fact this practice was still popular at the end of the 19th century. The Bishop and Dean of Chester in England were not to be left out of the merry-making either and they had an egg-throwing match with the choirboys in stately Chester cathedral.

In early America eggs had other purposes too. They were dyed different hues and Easter greetings were written on them and exchanged between friends. This custom came to a sticky end as the distances between friends grew and the fatality rate of eggs in transit soared. With the disappearance of the message-bearing egg, the first Easter card was born. Its origin is uncertain, being either German or American. The earliest known card is believed to be one dated 1867 which is now a part of the Hallmark Historical Collection of 50,000 antique cards. These first Easter cards were flat plaques in various colours, many with lavishly fringed borders and silk cords and tassels by which they could be hung on the wall.

The custom of sending cards remains a friendly tradition of Easter today. Present day cards differ very little from those of the 19th century, researchers at Court's Hallmark explained. Eggs, chicks, flowers, birds, rabbits, lilies and the cross still dominate Easter card design. These symbols have become an integral part of the Easter tradition. The main difference

Boyd-Miller Vows In St. Martin's

An Empire-line gown of white peau de mouton which she made herself was worn by Judith Ann Miller, Saturday evening, when she became the bride of Stephen Howard Boyd.

The gown was styled with an A-line skirt and featured a lace-covered bodice. Sleeves ended in lily pinks. Her scalloped-edged veil mistled from a pearl tiara and she carried a bouquet of pink rapture roses.

Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. Cameron James Miller, 630 Davida Place, and Mr. and Mrs. Morrison Atkinson Boyd, 384 Stewart Avenue.

Daffodils, forsythia and plum blossoms decorated St. Martin's-in-the-Field Church for the ceremony at which Rev. Brian Cullen officiated. Organist was Jack Murray.

Miss Linda Miller was bridesmaid for her sister in a gown of coral peau de mouton, similar to that of the bride. Her bridesmaid was a self-fabric bow and she carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations.

Brian Boyd was best man for his brother. Ushering guests to their seats were Hugh Pitt and John Folsom.

A three-tier wedding cake, topped with a vase of pink roses, centred the bride's table at the reception which followed.

'Demand for Surrender' Johnson Offer Rapped By Unitarian Speaker

By IAN ARROL

President Johnson's speech last Wednesday on Viet Nam is not in reality a peace offer but a demand for unconditional surrender. W. T. Lawson, Victoria social worker, told a Unitarian-sponsored public meeting which packed the Optimist Hall Sunday night.

Last week President Johnson was forced to back down from his former arrogant refusal to even discuss the question, and to make a new statement which he claimed opened the door to peace talks.

"This statement has won an immediate propaganda victory in certain quarters."

REVERSED

"The Daily Colonist, which had been critical of American policies, reversed its position and with a dazzling flight of logic stated that responsibility for ending the war now rested with North Viet Nam."

Mr. Lawson said the president's speech was "basically dishonest because it refused to negotiate with the only organization which is able to negotiate on behalf of the people of South Viet Nam—the National Liberation Front."

"The offer to negotiate with the governments of North Viet Nam and China, who are not involved in the war in the south, is military blackmail."

"The Americans are placing a gun at the head of the North Viet Nam government and threatening to step up their undeclared war against that country, unless it intervenes to persuade the National Liberation Front to call off its opposition to American aggression in the south."

VICTORIA
Alphonse C. Pleases, 2967

"A genuine peace offer would logically have been followed up by a gesture of good faith—perhaps the cessation of bombing raids on North Viet Nam, as suggested by Prime Minister Pearson."

The speaker said the key stone of American justification for its actions in Viet Nam is the charge of alleged aggression by North Viet Nam.

Mr. Lawson contended there is no proof that there is aggression in South Viet Nam from China, North Viet Nam, Cambodia or Laos.

Mmm-mmmignonette

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

As I announced last Sunday, the second of our Colonist free seed offers for 1965 is mignonette, a flower especially esteemed for its fragrance. The flowers are not particularly showy, although flower arrangers value them for their distinctive bronze and green-gold tints, but the scent is haunting and exciting, yet singularly refreshing. A good place to grow the plants is beneath an open bedroom window, and fortunately, mignonette will do well on any side of the house, even the sunless north side.

In the technical language of the botanist, my seeds are Reseda odorata. Reseda comes from the Latin "resedo," meaning "to heal," for the plant was once used to heal bruises and was especially valued for the treatment of black eyes! The specific name, odorata, refers to the odor or fragrance. The seeds I have for you are of a special strain developed in France for the perfume trade.

Mignonette has an unusually romantic history. It is a wildflower in its native Egypt, and during Napoleon's Egyptian campaign, the Emperor came across a patch of the plants growing wild near his headquarters tent. Entranced by the haunting fragrance of the flowers, he posted a military guard over the patch to protect them until they had set and ripened seeds.

These seeds were collected carefully and were packaged and sent home to the Empress Josephine to grow in her garden at Malmaison, internationally famous for its collection of plants from all over the world.

Napoleon's armies were blockaded by Lord Nelson's Mediterranean fleet, though, and the French frigate bearing the precious seeds was captured by a British man-of-war. When intelligence officers examined the mail pouches, the package of seeds came to light.

War was still a chivalrous affair in those days, so the English sea captain, himself a keen gardener when ashore, ordered the seeds re-packaged and forwarded to the Empress by neutral schooner. In reading about this, I often wonder if the British officer was tempted to snaffle a tiny pinch of the seeds to try in his own garden.

Josephine was entranced by the mignonette, and not only established great open-air beds of the flowers at Malmaison, but set the fashion of growing it as a house-plant especially for its perfume. The French people fell head over heels in love with the little plant and nicknamed it mignonette — Little Darling — and the name stuck to such an extent that its true name, Reseda, is hardly ever used today.

From France, the flower made its way to England, and London went as mad as that staid city ever becomes over the enchanting fragrance of what they thought was a French flower. At one time, whole streets in London were lined with window boxes of mignonette, grown to combat the stench of the open sewers.

These, then, are the free seeds I have for you, imported from France and probably descended directly from the plants in Josephine's garden. While I can afford only a very tiny pinch of seeds to each applicant, you'll find there are at least 100 seeds in your packet, enough to perfume a dozen gardens if grown thriftily. To get your seeds, simply drop me a line asking for them, enclosing a stamped and self-addressed envelope, or use the request coupon on this page.

Eating Out Is an Occasion

Bad Meal Can Ruin Evening

By KATHARINE WHITEHORN

Two friends of mine once found themselves in a restaurant where the paper dollies turned out to be made of cellophane. The soup came out of a packet, the biscuits arrived wrapped in cellophane and the tea in a bakelite cup.

When the cheese (processed) appeared on a limp lettuce leaf that had plainly given up many hours before they observed that there was a small slug among its folds.

"Cheer up," said one of them. "It's bound to be plastic."

At home, you probably use instant coffee because it is your own time you are saving.

In a restaurant, you don't want austere good taste unless you are after an austere good time; but you certainly don't want substitute coffee and substitute food, whatever you eat at home.

To my mind, you have a perfect right to expect that the food in a restaurant should be better than that at home. To most people, after all, a meal out is an occasion. If it's a bad meal, it's the evening that's spoiled — maybe an anniversary of an important date.

One of the valid arguments against prepackaged, pre-frozen, pre-digested food is that, since though it tastes the first time, it always tastes the same. You certainly don't pay a packet in a restaurant for the same old packet you eat at home.

At least you know where you stand in a situation like the one in which another fussy friend of mine found himself.

The waiter asked him how he liked his bistro d'honneur. He said it was all right, but it wasn't bistro d'honneur; at which the waiter produced the head waiter, the maitre d'hotel, the manager, the chef and finally the tin, on which it did, indeed, say bistro d'honneur in large clear letters.

To some extent it is a question of honesty. Fresh food is fresh food and frozen food is frozen food, and if you are using the word only in the sense of "not having gone bad," you might just as well add "on a clean plate."

The same about all these hideously lush descriptions — anyone whose menu tells of tiny baby morning-picked mushrooms ought to be able to produce a dated certificate signed by the tiny baby who picked them that morning.

The odd fact is that people who complain in restaurants — unlike other careful consumers — are so often loathed and not heeded. I think people misunderstand their attitude.

Too many people, I am sure, think that the opposite of good expensive food is simply cheap food; but it isn't — it is bad, pretentious expensive food. Just as the opposite of good cheap food is bad.

London Observer

Ham on Rye —By ART BUCHWALD

WASHINGTON — It was reported in all the newspapers that the Mayor of Bull Whip, Alabama, was involved in a film-film confidence game in Washington, D.C.

There have been so many versions of what happened that I immediately tried to separate the wheat from the grits.

This much is certain. The mayor and a friend of his were in Washington, D.C. to appear on a television show called Closed Mind. After the show, around one in the morning, they went out into the street, for we know not what, met a friendly Negro, who, when he discovered that the mayor was from Bull Whip, offered to show him the town.

In the course of the tour the mayor lost $112, or five dollars more than the Mayor of Selma, who, by coincidence, happened to be out on the town the same evening. It has been established that the Mayor of Selma and the Mayor of Bull Whip never met during the entire evening. I called the Mayor of Bull Whip for his version. "It's a pack of Northern press lies," he said at once.

"What is, Mayor?" "Well, sir, I'd be most interested in hearing your version."

"Wal, this is what happened, and may Col. Al Lingo strike me down I'm lying."

"We finished this here television show about midnight and my friend says to me, 'Let's go out and get us a ham and cheese sandwich for some excitement.' 'I says, 'Fine.' I never been to Washington before, and I always wanted to try a ham and cheese sandwich. 'And there standing on this corner is this nigger. He looks just like my bootblack back home, so I feel I can trust him, and I says, 'Boy, you know where we can get us a luscious ham and cheese sandwich, something like we couldn't get in Bull Whip?'"

"And this darky grins and says, 'Sure, boss, I can fix you up with a ham and cheese sandwich. I got me a friend that makes 'em real good.'"

"How much are they?" "I asks him. 'Well, boss, this is kind of a club and it's $6 membership and $30 each for the sandwich.'"

"My friend says, 'Isn't that a little bit expensive for a sandwich?' And the nigger says, 'Food's a big item in this town.'"

"Wal, we start haggling with the fellow, 'cause we don't want to be taken for a bunch of country bumpkins, and I tell him I know what ham costs in Bull Whip and I know what cheese cost and I know what bread costs and it sure couldn't come to $30 a sandwich."

"The nigger says, 'You the guys that says you was hungry.' So I finally say, 'Okay, but I want to look at this ham and cheese sandwich first.'"

"The nigger takes us to a strange part of Washington and says, 'You better put your money into this here envelope because you never know what's going to happen in these after-hours restaurants.'"

"So we put the money in an envelope and he disappears. When he don't come back, my friend and I get suspicious and we open the envelope and our $112 is gone."

"It suddenly dawned on us that we're victims of another Yankee crime wave."

"So my friend and I go back to the hotel and we decide everything George Wallace says about Washington, D.C. is true. You give niggers the vote and the next thing you know they're lying and cheating and stealing your money."

"There's only one other question I'd like to ask you, Mayor." I said. "Why didn't you report the incident to the police?"

"Very simple. Who would believe that two men from Bull Whip, Alabama, were out at one o'clock in the morning looking for a ham and Swiss cheese sandwich?"

Have Your Own Week

Says STAN DELAPLANE

This is a month to remember. It is National Rug Cleaning Month. National Laugh Week.

It is National Ladder Month. Start on the bottom rung and work up. And step on the fingers of the man behind you. Laugh it up. Clean a rug.

Would you like a National Week or Month? All your own? It is simple.

You decide what you want to celebrate. Then give it a name. (I am starting a "Curse It, Who's Been Using My Razor Week.")

You now make yourself an organization. Add the purpose. Write it all down.

Now, you are in business. Ready to celebrate. You get yourself a press agent.

Suppose you have just organized, "I Am a Good Guy Week."

The press agent will release a story about this week.

He will point out that you are a Good Guy. He will tell how to tell the Good Guys from the Bad Guys. (The Good Guys wear white hats. Bad Guys wear black hats. They drink, too. That's bad. Good Guys drink sarsaparilla.)

He will get some movie star to say for print: "Joe Snively, organizer of Good Guy Week is a Good Guy."

Maybe Jayne Mansfield. Miss Mansfield is a press agent's dream for saying things.

The press agent now gets a Good Guy Queen. Every national thing like this has a Queen—or what else is there to photograph?

He will get a newspaper to send out a photographer. And the photographer will take a picture of the Queen.

The Queen will be dressed in a Good Guy bikini.

She will state that Good Guys like bikinis because—well, because they are good for Good Guys. Probably healthy. Good Guys love health.

The photographer will take a picture of the Queen in a fetching pose.

The picture will go to the newspaper. And the editor will say, "For the love of Pete, who thought this one up?"

He will further say, "Make it up for two columns." Because a Queen in a bikini is not only good for Good Guys. It is good for circulation.

The Queen will be printed all over the country.

You will be known as a Good Guy. Which will be carefully inserted in the clippings under your name. And will be a great help to the reporter who has to write your obituary.

Cars Roar Up Mountain

Mount Douglas was crawling with climbers Sunday but instead of spikes the climbers wore racing tires.

It was Victoria Motor Sport Club's annual spring hill-climb and dozens of local and out-of-town drivers in a variety of cars tackled the mountain's challenging slopes.

Only one, Port Alberni's Bud Inglin in a formula junior Envoy, raced through the tricky course in less than a minute—58.49 seconds in fact, four seconds off the record.

The course climbs almost 700 feet and winds nine-tenths of a mile.

The slopes claimed two victories as New Westminster's Laurie Craig and Port Alberni's Richard Schenning damaged their cars in separate accidents.

It was a bad break for Mr. Craig who had wheeled his Corvette Stingray to a 57.67 time in a practice run.

Winning out-of-town drivers were John Lyle, Nanaimo, Class D modified, in a TR-3; Bill Taylor, Vancouver, Class D, in a TVR; Tony Campbell, Vancouver, Class F, in a Porsche; Don Lamont, New Westminster, Class G, in a Datsun; Barry Forbes, Port Alberni, Sedan I, in a Mini Cooper S, and Ray Middlemiss, New Westminster, Sedan III, in a Valiant.

Forty cars and drivers had three cracks at the hill, timed by an electric-eye clocking device.

Formula Junior, Bud Inglin, 58.49.
Class A, Laurie Craig, Chevrolet Corvette Stingray, DNF.
Class B, Al Brown, Jaguar XKE, 68.12.

Class D modified, John Lyle, TR-3, 62.45.
Class D, Bill Taylor, TVR, 61.19; G. B. Stevens, Morgan 85, 62.08; Don Ewen, Austin Healey, 68.02.

Class E, Dave Cooper, TVR, 61.82; Will Jensen, TR-4, 66.18; Jack Fraser, MG 19, 67.29; George Johnson, TR-3, 69.84.
Class F, Tony Campbell, Porsche, 64.71; Bill Connors, TR-3, 65.99; Joe Weber, Morgan, Pim Four, 67.81; John Young, Austin Healey, 69.45; David Barber, TR-3, 70.09; R. R. Johnson, TR-4, 72.69.

Class G, Don Lamont, Datsun, 68.68; Dave Lynn, Austin Healey, 68.83; Wally Macdonald, Volvo, P-1800, 70.67; Art Mayne, Austin Healey Sprite, 71.30; Gordon MacRae, Triumph Spitfire, 74.83.
Class H, Gordie Munro, MGA, 68.91; Ron Currie, Sunbeam Alpine, 67.72; Ron Maddux, Austin Healey Sprite, 73.70; Bill Edwards, Austin Healey Sprite, 73.87; Bob Kirk, Austin Healey Sprite, 77.13.
Class I, Ron Wellwood, MG Midget, 68.84; Mickey Maguire, Mini Cooper S, 68.87; Phil Baker, Fiat Spider, 69.97; Bill Ramsay, MG Midget, 100.50.

Sedan I, Barry Forbes, Mini Cooper S, 68.84; Mickey Maguire, Mini Cooper S, 68.87; Phil Baker, Fiat Spider, 69.97; Bill Ramsay, MG Midget, 100.50.

Stranded By Strike

ROME (UPI)—A four-hour public transportation strike stranded thousands of Romans Monday in a driving rainstorm.

The city's trains, buses and streetcars stopped in a protest against government policies which allegedly favor private bus companies in the greater Rome area.

In another labor development, Rome hospital doctors began a five-day strike to back up a demand for medical reforms.

ANNOUNCEMENT:

New, more powerful gasoline produced by Shell—
now on sale in B.C.

SHELL SCIENTISTS have produced a new, more powerful formula for regular grade gasoline. This new gasoline is now being delivered to Shell stations in B.C. You can buy it today.

The new Shell formula is particularly suited to B.C. conditions—where motorists often have more need for extra power from a regular gasoline because of the higher, steeper hills.

If your car's engine was designed for regular gasoline but sometimes suffers from knock, try the new Shell formula. The difference in power is immediately noticeable.

Dandy Desserts

Satisfy that craving for something sweet at the end of the meal and at the same time provide extra food value with tasty milk desserts. Whether you use those handy packaged mixes or "start from scratch", keep a few little tricks up your sleeve for adding instant glamor.

Perfect Parfaits

Instant puddings are a delight to behold when they're layered in pretty parfait glasses alternately with whipped cream and/or wafer crumbs. Try butterscotch pudding, adding 4 teaspoons powdered instant coffee before heating in the milk as directed. Chocolate wafer crumbs and whipped cream make a wonderful flavor combination for the other layers in this perfect parfait.

Instant Variety

Seems there's no end to the ways you can serve plain vanilla pudding. The children will love the rippled effect made by swirling a spoonful of melted semi-sweet chocolate through each serving. Now add their flavor it with almond extract and fold in well-drained crushed pineapple for a refreshing fruit flavor. Don't forget too, that 1/2 cup of whipped cream folded into any pudding makes it extra creamy.

Nutritionally Tops

When you're tallying up the family's daily milk quota be sure to count the milk used in these desserts as well as in all your other cooking. It supplies the same good food value as the milk you drink... very important since no one ever outgrows the need for milk!

Party Time Treat

Next time you're entertaining young ones, make it a special event with Circus Custards. Prepare your favorite baked custard—either chocolate or plain—in individual dishes. At dessert time decorate each serving with a dollop of whipped cream, an animal cracker or two and a little paper pennant.

Company Classic

Take fresh maple syrup... add the extra goodness of cream cheese and milk and you've got the ingredients for a very special springtime dessert. Start by heating an 8-ounce package of cream cheese until smooth and soft. Then gradually blend in 1 cup each of maple syrup and milk. Add a teaspoon of vanilla for extra flavor and freeze until firm.

In Booming West Germany Worker Treated Like King

By RICHARD H. GROWALD
 FRANKFURT, Germany
 (UPI)—A line of chauffeured limousines pulls up every morning at the front door of Nickmann's big department store and the women passengers alight—to go to their jobs as salesclerks behind the store's counters.

A busload of laughing, middle-aged women pulls up at Frankfurt airport and the passengers board an airliner for a vacation on the island of Capri. They are scrubwomen, given the trip by their employer as a reward for having stayed on the job at least six months.

In booming West Germany, there is a labor shortage and employers are using a variety of come-ons to find and keep help.

More than a million Spaniards, Italians, Portuguese, Turks and others have been imported as "guest workers"—getting their own radio, programs, special allowances and bonuses, free travel and low price room and board—but still the nation's economic miracle is short of manpower.

A glance at employers' newspaper advertisements tell the story.

Gone are the days when a German worker was content with a beer and sausage after a grueling day on the job. Now he needs inducements and they get pretty fantastic.

One large dress factory stuffed leaflets into housewives' mailboxes pleading: "Come to us. We're a happy and easy-going outfit... five-day week... no travel costs... more than union-level wages... pre-job training... airy, clean, warm working conditions... weekends begin at 4 p.m. Friday... we give you a gold watch on your birthday... bonuses up to 120 marks ($30)

'Aristocrats' on Display For Island Horse Lovers

By BERT BINNY

The "aristocrats" of Vancouver Island were receiving on Sunday.

These were four-legged aristocrats—actually some of the outstanding stallions in the Victoria district. From 8 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. three busloads of human admirers were hurrying from farm to farm like the proverbial dog at the fair, making in defiance of superstition, 13 breeds, not including one for lunch.

The annual stallion tour sponsored by the owners of the equine showpieces and conducted by Bob Shanks and Fred Ball, was thoroughly enjoyed by the visitors.

Probably the stallions regard the whole occasion as inexplicable, tedious and unrewarding and are glad that, like Christmas, it comes but once a year. Nevertheless, they accepted the situation with equine good grace.

There were several thoroughbreds of the type that carry so much money on their velvet noses when they appear in competition at Sandown and other tracks. There was an Appaloosa—Blanket and not Leopard for the benefit of the initiated—an American Saddlebred, a Quarter Horse, a Pony of the Americas, a Morgan and one or two Arabians.

The tour was a bargain. For just 12 the tourists bowed around miles of pleasant countryside (without the attendant cares of driving) saw and were introduced to all those equine aristocrats and had lunch thrown in.

Birth Control Pill Proposal Might Cut Pigeon Populace

LONDON (AP)—Alderman Matthew Larmour thinks birth control pills are needed to keep down Britain's high-soaring pigeon population.

"The pill is the only solution," said Larmour.

Larmour is an alderman at the big fishing town of Gainsay. Like London and scores of other British cities, it has tried all sorts of devices to rid city centres of pigeons.

By the thousands, the pigeons dirty public buildings and statues, interfere with traffic and menace passersby.

"No one could possibly object to the pill being used on pigeons — not even the pigeons," said Larmour.

The alderman said he would do some research on the subject and report to the Grimsby city council.

"It might work," said a spokesman for the Royal Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. "But remember this—it's going to be impossible to give every female pigeon a pill."

Girl Must Remain in Jail

An Alberni school-girl who pleaded to be allowed to return to her classroom when she appeared Saturday in city magistrate's court on a shoplifting charge will spend the next week in jail awaiting sentence.

Margaret E. Hoehn, 18, pleaded guilty to stealing $21 worth of merchandise from the Hudson's Bay Co. store in Victoria last Friday.

She is to remain in jail for the week while a pre-sentence report is prepared for Magistrate William Outler.

When she originally appeared last Saturday, she told Magistrate Harold Alder she would be expelled from school for absenteeism if she did not return. She was remanded in jail over the weekend.

Thomas Merchant, no fixed address, was jailed for a month for begging.

Merchant, who was charged under the vagrancy section of the Criminal Code, had been convicted of drunkenness twice in the past month, the court was told.

James Gibson, 18, of 298 Zealous, was given a six-month suspended sentence Monday in Esquimalt magistrate's court for theft of hubcaps.

Magistrate Outler said the youth had a good pre-sentence report, but warned him he is "susceptible to suggestion and easily led." He also warned Gibson to avoid bad company.

A medical witness told court John A. Wilson, 1240 Bewdley, told him he thought the time was about 4 p.m. during a 7 a.m. sobriety test March 27.

Wilson was found guilty of impaired driving and fined $300.

In another Esquimalt case, Lawrence Henderson, 1068 Monterey, pleaded guilty to being in care and control of a car while his ability to drive was impaired.

Court was told Henderson was found slumped at the wheel of a car with lights on and the key in the ignition early April 5.

He was remanded one week for sentence.

Thieves Make $1,000 Haul

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — Yeggs escaped with $1,000 during the weekend after cracking the safe in the Hudson's Bay Company store here, RCMP reported Sunday. The store was entered through a hole cut in the roof.

Red Scientist Claims:

Radio Finds Life In Distant Space

MOSCOW (Reuters)—Soviet radio astronomers have discovered a source of regular-patterned radio waves on the far fringes of space and one of them says, definitely "a super-civilization has been discovered," it was reported Monday.

The claimant, Dr. Nikolai Kardashev, last year urged scientists around the world to study the distant source, CTA-102, more thoroughly than any other objective in the universe. Recent observations by astronomer Gennady Shklovitsky have shown that emissions from CTA-102 follow a regular pattern of flickerings repeated every 100 days, the news agency Tass reported.

NEW CIVILIZATION

This finding, Kardashev said, confirms that a new civilization has been found, but other astronomers call for more verification of data before drawing such a conclusion.

Results of Shklovitsky's findings in recent months have been sent almost daily to Moscow to be checked and rechecked.

MAJOR DISCOVERY

Moscow scientists say "we face perhaps one of the most outstanding discoveries in the whole history of radio-astronomy."

John Wyndham of the California Institute of Technology, who first catalogued CTA-102, said he had not noticed any variations in radio strength, but added:

FIRST OF ITS KIND

"If it is true that the radio emission fluctuates, this would be the first of its kind among quasars."

"Quasar," or quasi-stellar radio sources, is the scientific name for the invisible signal-emitting pinpoints in space.

Harrie Massey, chairman of the British National Committee for Space Research, said of the Russian claims:

"It is extremely interesting. One must take it seriously." But he said the Russians have by no means presented conclusive evidence.

SOMETHING NEW

Fred Haddock, a radio astronomer at the University of Michigan, said:

"If they indeed have signals of regularly varying intensity, this would indeed be something new in the field."

Frank D. Drake, an astronomer at Cornell University, said:

"If the 'flickering' follows a simple pattern, a natural explanation is likely. If the pattern is complex and repeats itself, an intelligent origin is likely."

Kardashev theorized that if the emissions are caused by rational beings the source must be very small. Tass said this.

Caouette Collapses

OTTAWA (CP)—Credited Leader Jean Caouette, 47, was taken to hospital in nearby Hull, Que., Monday after collapsing in his Commons office.

His executive assistant, Fernand Bourret, said heart trouble was suspected.

Dr. Paul A. Meilleux, who examined Mr. Caouette at hospital, said the Credited leader's condition did not appear to be serious.

Probers Pin Guilt on Nerve Gas

Poisoned Sheets Nearly Killed Two Boys

TORONTO (CP)—The near-fatal illness of two Vancouver youngsters sparked an international investigation that eventually blamed an accident at sea and resulted in the destruction of cargo in widely-separated communities.

A report on two cases of parathion (nerve gas) poisoning in the current Journal of the Canadian Medical Association reads like a detective drama.

Authorities in Belgium, California, Ottawa, Edmonton, Vancouver and Burnaby, B.C., became involved after two boys, one five years old, the other 12, were admitted to Lions Gate Hospital in North Vancouver nine days apart a year ago.

R. F., the five-year-old, was admitted the morning of March 29, 1964, with breathing difficulties, in semi-coma after a few days of illness and vision trouble. He soon lapsed into coma, flamed at the mouth and required artificial respiration to breathe.

That night, "he suddenly and inexplicably began to improve" and he was discharged well from hospital April 8. Pediatrician J. E. Parter says it was decided the boy had been suffering from viral encephalitis.

Inflammation of the brain from a virus infection. V. R., a 12-year-old neighbor of R. F., was admitted to the hospital April 7 in the same condition and required an emergency operation to open his windpipe. He regained consciousness the next morning and was discharged April 18.

Meanwhile, R. F. became ill again and returned to hospital April 11. By this time, doctors suspected poisoning and administered the drug atropine, which led to the boy's recovery.

Public health authorities were approached and they made their first visits to the homes of the boys April 13 in a search for the source of the trouble. They found R. F.'s 16-year-old brother in bed ill with headache, blurred vision and complaints of muscular weakness.

New Shuffle Expected In Viet Nam

SAIGON (Reuters)—A purge of South Viet Nam's powerful armed forces council appeared likely Monday following the removal of two key military figures from their commands over strong American objections.

Air Marshal Nguyen Cao Ky, air force commander and one of the most influential figures of the council, announced Saturday that certain "bad" elements in the council were to be eliminated.

He did not name officers who might be removed from the council but observers believed they might include Admiral Chuong Van Cong and Brig.-Gen. Pham Van Dong, who have been replaced in their military commands.

The authoritative sources, however, affirmed that both officers were charged with corruption.

The flood has taken seven lives, cost an estimated $20,000,000 in damage and left 20,000 persons homeless.

From city after city came reports of waters rising to new heights. Dikes built after earlier floods proved inadequate.

A dozen communities fought their own battles, aided by thousands of volunteers including teen-agers dismissed from schools in many areas.

Ice jams on the Mississippi River and its tributaries added to the woes.

A major effort continued in St. Paul where workers scrambled to finish a three-foot high addition to a permanent floodwall and to build new dikes around industrial plants and stockyards.

A 37-foot river crest due in St. Paul Friday would be an all-time record and 13 feet over flood stage.

"We feel that if the predictions hold we should be all right," said Eugene Avery, St. Paul city engineer. "The additions we're making should give us about a foot of free board."

The Minnesota River, looping through south-central Minnesota, was beginning a slow downward trend, but embattled Mankato will have to wait at least until Saturday before the river recedes within its banks.

The Red Lake River in the Northwest joined the list of rampaging waters, with waves Hutchinson west of Minneapolis.

The Minnesota River was due to crest at Shakopee and Savage Monday night, moving relentlessly to its junction with the Mississippi below St. Paul.

The usually docile Crow River continued to flood Delano and

OTTAWA (CP)—Memo to the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism:

Prime Minister Pearson considers some questions in your survey of MPs "irrelevant and highly inappropriate" and would not answer them himself.

This was the gist of a statement Mr. Pearson made in the Commons Monday in reply to complaints last week by Opposition Leader Diefenbaker and other Conservatives that the royal commission was "snooping" in party politics.

NOT RELEVANT

The Prime Minister said he agrees with the commission's aim of seeking "all relevant information on the bilingual and bicultural aspects of the

White Paper Shows Whopping Deficit Cut

OTTAWA (CP)—Last spring's federal budget deficit of $619,200,000 was cut by a whopping 67 per cent to $193,000,000 in the 1964-65 fiscal year, Finance Minister Gordon reported Monday.

After tabling his pre-budget white paper in the Commons, he told reporters:

"It was a very good year in all industries, in all economic components and in all parts of the country."

The deficit for the year ended March 31 was the lowest since a $39,000,000 deficit in 1957-58, and came after a string of six running as high as $791,000,000 in 1961-62. In his budget last spring Mr. Gordon had forecast a deficit of $435,000,000.

NO PREDICTION

But he would make no prediction Monday about the size of the deficit—or surplus—he expects at the end of the current fiscal year next March 31. That forecast will be in his budget speech.

"I am optimistic about the months ahead and the years ahead, as well as the long-term future of Canada," he told reporters.

What does the white paper mean to the man in the street? he was asked.

UNDER CONTROL

"It means the finances of the federal government are under control once again and the business of the country is being pretty well managed."

The economy last year surged forward to a much greater extent than the government anticipated.

Mr. Gordon announced in the Commons that his budget for the new year will be introduced the day the Commons returns from its proposed Easter recess, Monday, April 26.

He told reporters he had underestimated the growth of the economy and buoyancy of federal government revenues last year. This is the kind of under-estimation he does not find embarrassing, he said.

CHICAGO (AP)—The United States counted a staggering 239 deaths Monday in the wake of the Palm Sunday outbreak of tornadoes that hit six states.

Families dug through debris looking for valuables in what had been their homes. National Guardsmen were ordered to stricken areas to aid in salvage work and prevent looting, and officials began the vast cleanup job.

The death list from five battered states was 133 in Indiana, 55 in Ohio, 44 in Michigan, seven in Illinois and three in Wisconsin.

SERVICES CUT

Still crippled were communications, utilities, and normal services of nearly 50 communities. Water shortage and health perils were reported.

The tornadoes, starting in Iowa, which was relatively unscathed, smashed a path eastward across a heavily populated region to Ohio before easing their punishment.

1,000 INJURED

The American Red Cross said more than 1,500 were injured, more than 1,500 homes were destroyed or damaged in at least 33 communities.

Damage was expected to run into many millions of dollars. The American Insurance Association designated the string of storms as catastrophic.

FOLLOWED KILLER

Sunday's barrage of twisters came after a tornado killed six persons and injured 28 at Conway, Ark., Saturday night.

The torn, crumpled, flattened suburban sections of Toledo, brought the exclamation from Governor James A. Rhodes of Ohio:

"Fantastic... unbelievable! There's nothing you can compare it with."

GUARD CALLED OUT

Rhodes ordered National Guard units to help police and disaster forces to bring order out of wreckage and care for stunned people.

The National Guard was also ordered out in small units to scattered communities in Michigan and Indiana. Both states were scarred from west to east.

FIRES SEARCHED

Indiana, with the highest state death toll, was expected to find more bodies as workers searched open fields, cellars of smashed homes and wreckage of stores. Many victims were blown hundreds of feet by wind.

Johnson's Toss Opens Major League Season

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

President Lyndon Baines Johnson threw out the first ball Monday and ushered in another major league baseball season.

President Johnson's traditional toss got the Washington, Boston game started and then the chief executive watched the Red Sox poke five home runs and hammer out a 7-2 victory.

Lennie Green hit two homers and Felix Mantilla, Tony Conigliaro and Lee Thomas chipped in with one apiece as Billy Monbouquette throttled the Senators.

Three-base errors

Rockie Coldenfield Arturo Lopez made a three-base error in the 11th inning and Minnesota pushed across a run edging the New York Yankees 4-3. Oscar Tovar, whose ninth inning error enabled the Yankees to tie the score, drove in the winning run with a single.

The Chicago Cubs came from behind twice and settled for a 10-16 tie with the world champion St. Louis Cardinals in a game called by darkness after 11 innings. Ernie Banks' three-run homer with two out in the ninth ended a 9-6 St. Louis lead and then, after the Cardinals had scored a run in the top of the 11th, Ron Santo tied it again with a double.

San Francisco's Juan Marichal and Pittsburgh's Bob Veale engaged in a pitcher's duel with Bob Bailey's 10th inning homer breaking it up and giving the Pirates a 1-0 victory over the Giants.

Bailey's shot was only the fifth hit off Marichal. Veale, who led the major leagues in strikeouts with 250 last season, fanned 10 and allowed just three hits.

Two homers

Joe Torre powered two home runs and Eddie Mathews added one as Milwaukee got two-hit pitching from Tony Ciesinger and beat Cincinnati 4-2. Deron Johnson homered for the Reds. Don Drysdale fired a four-hitter and hit a two-run homer as Los Angeles Dodgers whipped the New York Mets 6-1. Willie Davis, who had three hits, also homered for the Dodgers.

Two-run homers by Jerry Lumpe and rookie John Sullivan lifted the Detroit Tigers past the Kansas City Athletics 6-2.

Detroit got strong pitching from starter and winner Mickey Lolich, a left-hander who won 18 games last season, and right-hander Larry Sherry, who went the last three innings.

Richie Allen drove in a home run in support of Chris Short's four-hit pitching as the Phillies shut out the Astros 3-0, marring Astro's first league appearance in their new $11,000,000 domed stadium.

A capacity crowd including Ford Frick, NL President Warren Giles and 24 of America's 28 astronauts watched the game.

Wings, Canadiens Can Wrap It Up

The Detroit Red Wings and Montreal Canadiens can move into the National Hockey League Stanley Cup finals with victories Tuesday, but they'll have to overcome their opponents' home ice advantage to do it.

Both Detroit and Montreal hold 3-2 game leads in the best-of-seven series but are away from home Tuesday against Chicago and Toronto, respectively, to continue their semi-final series in which every game has been won by the home team.

Tonight's Stanley Cup game in Toronto may be seen over Channels 2 and 6, starting at 8:00 p.m., according to the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

home Tuesday against Chicago and Toronto, respectively, to continue their semi-final series in which every game has been won by the home team.

Below Par

Chicago and Detroit both will be below par for their meeting. Hawk centre Phil Esposito has aggravated an old back injury and winger Kenny Warrham is suffering from a bad knee. However, Bobby Hull, the Hawks' blond bomber, appears completely recovered from his mid-season injuries and is performing in top form.

Detroit Coach Sid Abel is hoping that the series won't go back to the Motor City Thursday. He said that Doug Barkley had sustained a concussion Sunday night and his condition for Tuesday night's game was questionable.

FOUR RECORD

Abel has reason for worry. The Red Wings have registered only one victory on Chicago ice this season.

Montreal Coach Toe Blake said he plans to keep Gump Worsley in the nets even though regular goalie Charlie Hodge is ready to return.

"After the three games Worsley played it's pretty hard to make a change," Blake said.

FUNCH CONFIDENT

Although the Leafs are on the short end of the 3-2 edge in games, Punch Imlach, Toronto's mentor, was oozing confidence. He pointed out that the Canadiens held a similar advantage last year but the Leafs rallied to defeat them.

"The Canadiens aren't good enough to win in Toronto," Imlach declared. "You can put that in because I want them to know it so they'll be at their very best."

"We won Tuesday and Thursday last week and we'll do it again this week," he concluded.

Hawks twice held the lead, Ted Lindsay tying the score, 1-1 in the first period after Eric Nesterenko had opened the scoring.

Popular Tenpin Spiel Draws 396 Bowlers

Ninety-nine teams, 16 from out of town and an overall increase of 19 over the inaugural event, will take part in the second annual Vancouver Island Tenpin Bouspiel. Co-sponsored by The Daily Colonist and Mayfair Lanes and set to start at Mayfair Lanes on Friday morning at 10:30, the bouspiel has in two years become largest tenpin tournament on the Island with its 396 bowlers.

Big reason is the bouspiel format adopted from curling in which teams of four bowlers play out on a progressive draw. An improvement from curling is that bowling provides a handicap to even up matters for bowlers of average, or even less, ability.

Individual averages range from the 130 sported by Ken Bell, Nanaimo zone champion, down to 88. Team handicaps for each three-game match range upwards from the 157 for Bell's team, Nanaimo's Caribatts, to the 678 for Northwestern Securities.

This encouragement has resulted in an increase in the distaff entry. Forty-five of the 99 teams have one or more women bowlers, including eight who have disdained the help of even one male, to make a total of 100 ladies entered.

PRICE LIST

All three event winners, and 33 of the 48 bowlers on last year's prize-winning teams, are back for another try at a prize list which offers $700 worth of merchandise as well as a guaranteed $1,200 in cash prizes.

Back to defend the Colonist Trophy, and try to again win the $400 first prize, is the Trophy Shop team.

LUCK OF DRAW

And through the luck of the draw, the defending champions may have their toughest test in their first game. They drew the Caribatts, who have Fred Fulla (175), Eddie Bryce (180) and Harris Gill (180) bowling ahead of Bell.

Moody (179), Munn (177), Stowe (180) and Shaw (179) get only a 21-pin start for their match at 3:30 Friday afternoon.

Alley Cats, who lost their first game last year then made good use of their 491 handicap to go unbeaten the rest of the way and win the Mayfair event, are back intact. Joyce Camus, Jerry Hale, Frank Hong and Ted Rodway bowl this time with a 466 handicap.

Peggy Trickett and Len Parsons are back with Amalgamated Roofers, winners of the Car's Trophy event last year. Replacing Dot and Chuck Bennett are Joan Lascombe and Jim Mills.

Also intact the second time around is last year's runner-up in the Colonist event, Charlie Cowie has Rudy Christ, Alex Pearson and Bob Manchester under the colors of Speedway Motors.

PRESENTATIONS

Teams will bowl through Saturday and Sunday and the bouspiel will end Monday evening with the prize presentations and the wind-up party to follow the finals.

First two draws for each team follow. More games will be scheduled on Saturday at 1, 3:30, 6, 8:30 and 11 p.m. All bowlers should check for the time of their third games after bowling their second.

Hawks Bow to Nemesis Again As Ullman Scores Hat Trick

DETROIT—Detroit Red Wings centre Norm Ullman, who had his greatest National Hockey League season since joining Wings in 1955-56, has hardly paused to take a break since the Stanley Cup semi-finals got under way.

Ullman, who enjoys great success against Chicago Black Hawks in Stanley Cup play, was up to his old tricks Sunday night as Wings downed Hawks, 4-2.

OVERCOMES LEAD

He broke loose for his third three-goal outing against Hawks in Stanley Cup play, including a record pair in a five-second game, that crunched Wings to overcome a 2-1 Chicago lead.

Bobby Hull had put Hawks ahead at 14:39 of the second period, leaving the penalty box to take a pass from Doug Mohns in the open and beat Roger Crozier from short range. It was his seventh in the series, one shy of the record.

STARTS SPLURGE

Ullman, a 42-goal scorer during the regular season, tied the score at 17:35, beating Chicago goalkeeper with a high screened shot from 55 feet out.

From the ensuing face-off, Ullman took the puck over the Chicago blue line and fired another long shot. This time the puck bounced over the goalie's leg and into the net.

FAKES PASS

On the third goal, which came at 17:59 of the third period, he faked a pass from in front of the net and then drilled the shot home. It was his fifth goal of the series and gives him nine points, one less than Hull.

Hawks twice held the lead, Ted Lindsay tying the score, 1-1 in the first period after Eric Nesterenko had opened the scoring.

They are president Mrs. Armand St. Jean, Mrs. Al Addison, Mrs. Douglas White, Mrs. Irvine Pointe, Mrs. N. T. Bennett and Mrs. E. D. Strongtharm. Mrs. Robert Creighton, chairman of the local council's resolutions committee, leads the committee preparing for the convention.

PORT McNEILL—The Chamber of Commerce has decided to donate, for the best band in the Nanaimo Empire Day celebrations, a trophy which will be taken to Beaver Cove by flatdeck truck, to Kelowna by ferry and to Nanaimo by another truck. The "mystery" trophy—its nature will be disclosed at award time—weighs one ton. The winner will receive a miniature replica.

Trouble Near Race Rocks

Troller Nearly Sinks

The Campbell River troller Arlene Rose was towed to Victoria Monday afternoon after hitting a deadhead near Race Rocks.

There was one man aboard, owner Jake Hulme, who was not injured.

The 34-foot troller struck a rock and was partly submerged north of Race Rocks, between Victoria and Sooke.

The Commodore II, a fishing vessel, towed the troller part way to Victoria. The Sylvia Jane, another fishing vessel, finished the tow job into the McKay-Cormack shipyard in Victoria about 2:30 p.m.

The Arlene Rose was reported to have become half submerged in 30 seconds. Officials said it only remained upright because of an airlock. The boat received "extensive damage."

Three Items Needed By Albernis Project

PORT ALBERNI—Men, money and public interest are needed to develop "the nicest piece of property in the Alberni Valley," president Harvey Walter told the annual meeting Sunday of the Valley Sportsmen's Association.

The association holds a 10-year renewable lease on 132 acres of provincially-owned land on the Stamp River and plans a development for the use of all the people of the district.

MAYBE FIVE YEARS—Mr. Walter said more men for committee work, more money for capital expenditure and the support of the public are needed to accelerate the development program, which may take five years to complete.

He expressed concern over the difficulty of putting across to the public details of the plans, which include a clubhouse and watchman's quarters, picnic facilities, a small lake for flycasting instruction, a trap range and a rifle range.

HAS BEEN STARTED—A southwest tract of 15 to 18 acres where the building and ranges will be located has been almost logged off in the past year and fill has been started for an access road.

The district flyfishing club is ready to take over development of the lake.

Qualicum Outfall Approved

QUALICUM BEACH—Another step has been taken toward the establishment of a sewer system for this village with the provincial pollution control board's approval of an outfall application.

This clears the way for further planning and the village council has given approval in principle to an overall plan of sewerage for the village.

He was asked to prepare a more detailed plan and present cost figures and possible methods of repayment.

Sally Ann Milestone Marked in Nanaimo

NANAIMO—More than 250 people attended a citizens' rally in St. Andrew's United Church Sunday to mark the 100th anniversary of the founding of the Salvation Army.

A plaque was presented to Cyril Denison, rural chairman of the Army's Red Shield campaign, in recognition of his service to the local corps.

Speakers included Lt.-Col. Leslie Pindar of the Army, Nanaimo MLA Dave Stupich, Mayor Maffeo and Rev. Chris Jack, president of the Ministerial Association of Nanaimo.

DUNCAN—Mrs. Win Clark, executive director of the Greater Victoria Association for Retarded Children, will address a meeting of the Duncan and District Association for Retarded Children in the Arcadian School at 8 p.m. Wednesday.

LAKE COWICHAN—A successful art exhibition sponsored by the local Elks lodge may become an annual event, say officials of the organizing Lake Cowichan Art Group. More than 100 oils and watercolors were shown along with silk screens, ceramics, woodwork, copperwork, enamels and textiles. Entries came from Crofton, Duncan, Cowichan Bay, Victoria, Youbou, Honeycomb Bay and Lake Cowichan.

DUNCAN—Victoria resident James Cruthers Hutchinson has been fined $150 in magistrate's court for a traffic offence and was prohibited from driving for 12 months except to and from work. Separate charges of causing a disturbance brought fines of $30 to Kenneth Fox of Duncan and $27 to Margie Theresa Edwards of Duncan.

CUMBERLAND—Jack Vaughan spoke for the 25 First World War veterans who were guests of honor Friday at the annual Vimy Night dinner and dance attended by 80 people. Other officials were Jack Harrison, Bryson Barzham, George Pimm, Mrs. Doris Nicholas, Rev. V. Lord and William Henderson.

HONEYMOON BAY—A new patrol system for Scouts was outlined by district Scout commissioner Robert Ferguson during a meeting of the Honeycomb Bay Scout group committee Sunday. Cub Randy Latham received a second star and boys receiving badges or passing tests were Darryl Corrigan, Paul Hammond, David Clark, John Gaudreault, Peter Goldsmith, Gary Hanson, Randy Latham, Ronnie van Rossum and Raymond Wear.

Science Exhibits

Bonner Pupils Fair Winners

DUNCAN—George Bonner Junior High School students took three first places and one second in the science fair held in Cowichan Senior High School at the weekend, officials announced Monday.

Entries jumped to 42 from the 18 at the annual event last year and came from Lake Cowichan High, CSS, George Bonner, Mount Provost Junior and Quamichan Junior schools.

The students worked on the projects with the assistance from teachers. Judges were Duncan hospital pathologist Dr. D'Arcy Gunn, forestry official Bruce Devitt and Bamberston cement plant official J. M. Cuning.

The winners: Juniors, individuals: 1. Gordon Auer, George Bonner, Tenth soil exhibit; 2. David Valerie Weismiller, Provost, internal circuit organ; and Mark Jackson, Provost, frog group; 1. Sandra Bonner and Judy Wattler, Bonner, crystal; 2. David Daves, Kees Fawcett and Tom Embury, Provost, tomato plant. Seniors, individuals: 1. Mark Provost, CSS, internal balance; 2. Mark Macdonald, Bonner, frog; 3. Ronny Maffeo, Bonner, plant; 4. Evelyn Murray, Bonner, plant. The "with" group did better.

New Way To Go

Dubbed "Iron Horse," experimental logging truck built by MacMillan in Nanaimo is being tested in Mac-Forell's Kelsey Bay logging division. It has no trailer like ordinary logging trucks, is faster, more manoeuvrable, easier to load and unload and can climb steeper grades. But most loggers, unlike only qualified driver George May, are loath of cab 16 feet ahead of first wheels. Cab sticks out over cliffs on hairpin turns.—(Agnes Flott)

Island Division

Victorian Leads Navy League Unit

NANAIMO—Denis Brown of Victoria was re-elected president of the Navy League of Canada's Vancouver Island division during the annual meeting Saturday.

Also re-elected were Mayor Leo Hammer of Port Alberni as first vice-president and Jerry Bishop of Victoria as treasurer. Howard Webster of Campbell River was chosen second vice-president and Lyle Wilkinson of Victoria was appointed divisional secretary.

Representatives from Victoria, Shawnigan Lake, the Cowichan area, Nanaimo, Alberni, Comox and Campbell River attended the meeting.

Next major activity for Island sea cadets will be a visit by 300 boys to HMCS Naden in Esquimalt May 15 and 16.

Big Hunt Suspended For Fishboat Crew

JUNEAU, Alaska (CP)—The U.S. Coast Guard suspended its search during the weekend for the eight men aboard the 64-foot Vancouver halibut boat Sea Ranger in the Bering Sea.

Four planes and four vessels searched a 3,000-sq.-mile area before the hunt was suspended. Officials said it would be resumed if developments warrant, but added there was little doubt the vessel had gone down.

The eight included William J. Henry, whose mother lives at 1206 Fairfield in Victoria, and former Nanaimo resident William McCullough.

A lifeboat and other debris from the Sea Ranger were found near the Aleutians late last week. The Sea Ranger is believed to have been caught in a sudden storm.

We're testing Gold Keg Beer on the world's toughest critics:

Englishmen.

We undertook Operation Gold Keg to find out how Englishmen would react to Canada's popular Gold Keg Beer.

Because, as everyone knows, Englishmen love good beer. If a Canadian beer can pass muster in England, it's good.

So we've shipped a cargo of Gold Keg to London, and we're touring the place. We're going to find out how Gold Keg stands up to such illustrious company as Bass, Whitbread's and Watlington's.

The first few tests have been wildly successful.

Englishmen tell us they love Gold Keg's delicious flavour and its fine amber colour. Some of them even said it was "smashing".

But we can't be satisfied till we've covered many more pubs. That's what we're doing now.

Further reports on Operation Gold Keg will follow.

Observers Report:

'Flying Saucer'
Just an Airplane

A mysterious flying object seen Sunday night over Vancouver Island from Victoria to above Nanaimo was definitely a jet aircraft, several observers in Greater Victoria said Monday.

The immense, bright object triggered numerous calls to police and newspapers with reports of a flying saucer or meteorite.

D. A. Brown, 1681 Carnegie Crescent, pulled his car off the Malahat just north of Mill Bay after seeing the bright object.

MOON REFLECTION

He identified it as a U.S. jet, either a bomber or a jetliner, and said the brightness was caused by an unusual reflection of the full moon.

Robert Irish, 2195 Ferndale, and Herbert Perry, 2340 Welles in Sidney, watched the craft through binoculars between 7:30 and 8 p.m.

GREYISH COLOR

Mr. Perry, a former airline radio operator, called it an "unusually large military aircraft" flying 30,000 to 35,000 feet up and about 600 miles an hour.

It was a greyish military color instead of the normal silver. There were two bright lights on each wing and Mr. Perry suggested the pilot might have forgotten to turn them off.

PASSENGER JET

Mr. Irish felt it was a conventional passenger jet out of Seattle or Tacoma. He said it was travelling in the same direction and at about the same speed as the big U.S. airline jets which fly over his home regularly.

"I'm told these planes are from an American airline and are gradually climbing to higher altitudes as they fly out of Seattle-Tacoma airport," he said. He spoke of one light at each wingtip, one at the end and a red revolving light.

Both U.S. and Canadian military sources said earlier none of their aircraft were in the area at the time and no civilian traffic could be traced locally.

Port Alberni

IWA Building
Sketch Ready

PORT ALBERNI — Sketch plans for the proposed $100,000 headquarters of the IWA Local 1451 have been received from architects Peterson and Leslie of Victoria, local officials announced Monday.

Financial secretary Maurice Corbell said the 55-foot by 42-foot concrete frame structure will have two floors, with the general office, board room and individual offices on the upper level.

The lower floor will have a 40-foot by 60-foot hall, a kitchen and other facilities.

OWN'S LAND

The IWA some time ago bought land for the building on Melrose between Weaver Park and the lane which divides the block from Third to Fourth avenues.

The rear of the lot is a slope into Coal Creek gully and plans are to landscape the area. Parking for 18 cars will be provided at the front and on the west side of the building.

Mr. Corbell said the architects require about two months to complete detailed plans and call for tenders.

Bulk of the work will be done during the fall and winter, he predicted.

Railing Breaks,
Pilgrims Drown

LUCKNOW, India (Reuters)—About 70 pilgrims were feared drowned in the Sarju River in Uttar Pradesh state Saturday when railings of a pontoon bridge gave way during a Hindu bathing festival, it was reported here Sunday.

The pilgrims had gathered to celebrate the anniversary of Rama the Seventh, reincarnation of the god Vishnu, by bathing in the river. They were crowding on the pontoon when the iron railing gave way and about 100 fell into the water. Twenty-seven were saved.

Bat Bites Boy: Rabies Suspected

Dr. G. A. Gibson, director of the Upper Island health unit, said the bat was captured and sent to the UBC animal pathology laboratory.

He said preliminary tests showed "high suspicion" of rabies and the boy was started on a course of vaccination against rabies.

Rabid or suspected bats were found last summer in three Island districts: Youbou, Parksville and Denman Island in this area.

Dr. Gibson said bat rabies is "very definitely on the increase" and the public should "take the greatest care" in approaching sick animals. He said bats especially should never be handled and pointed out a bat has to be sick if it allows itself to be caught.

The director said parents should see that their children are aware of this danger.

$3,502,057 Budget

For Nanaimo
As Votes Urged

NANAIMO—The first $3,000,000 budget in city history was placed before city council Monday night by finance chairman Ald. Jack Parker, who said it will mean an increase of about $4 in the average individual tax bill.

The budget, which first hit the million mark in 1955, jumped to $3,502,057 from $3,561,384 last year. The tax rate for general purposes rose to 73.5 from 71 mills and the school rate jumped to an estimated 26 from 22.1.

Ald. Parker said individual taxes would rise by slightly more than $18 but the $15 home owner grant increase would offset much of the boost.

NO BUS SUBSIDY

The budget contained no mention of a Nanaimo Transit subsidy, a waterfront survey or a centennial project.

Ald. Parker suggested taxpayers vote on two money by-laws to finance important items which the city cannot now afford.

One would finance capital projects, with Ottawa providing 25 per cent, including the public works headquarters, a new fire hall, a Bowen Park recreation RCMP traffic patrol within the building to service the swimming pool, tennis courts and a bowling green.

The other would allow a major street and storm drain program throughout the city, paving of gravelled streets in the north part of the city and reconstruction and paving of streets in the south part.

The program would be undertaken by city crews over a period of several years.

AMBULANCE PROBLEM

Island Ambulance Services manager Gordon Wagner, whose firm won a $25 subsidy last year to $125, asked for a $750 monthly subsidy to finance the purchase of new equipment which would provide more varied services.

A decision was deferred until a meeting of city and fire department officials April 21.

The city agreed to buy a $1,400 radar set for the use of the RCMP traffic patrol within the city.

None Serious

In Crashes

Ten people escaped serious injury during the weekend when two 1956-model cars were demolished in a pair of Vancouver Island road accidents.

A station wagon carrying three adults and five children skidded out of control and rolled over after a tire blowout two miles south of Ladysmith.

Police said driver Jean Ester Munn of Nanaimo, passenger Shirley Pullen of Nanaimo and an elderly man and five children, all unidentified, escaped with minor cuts and bruises.

NEAR UNION BAY

The other mishap occurred 1½ miles south of Union Bay when the driver of a car was forced to swerve sharply to avoid hitting a pedestrian.

The car hit a soft shoulder, turned over and rolled down an embankment to the beach.

Driver Hugh MacDonald, 19, and passenger Kenneth Hatch, 20, were bruised and shaken up and the driver received head and face cuts.

Nanaimo Man
Injured
By Cave-In

NANAIMO — A 35-year-old construction worker received severe leg injuries when part of an earthen ditch in the Gordon Street development caved in on him about 3:30 p.m. Monday.

Joe Zanchetta, Hammond Bay Road, was working the drainage ditch with four-by-four boards and plywood, behind the OCF Hall.

When the dirt wall collapsed Mr. Zanchetta was pinned to the ground by a piece of plywood. He is in satisfactory condition in hospital.

Mill Ruins Oysters
Says Crofton Man

CROFTON—A Crofton oyster grower said Monday he and other growers in the area have complained "for some time" about oyster pollution they blame on the B.C. Forest Products pulp mill.

Cmdr. G. B. Barnes was commenting on a recent statement by BCFP official Jack Gallagher that his company must observe strict federal fisheries regulations and no complaint has been received "to my knowledge."

"Perhaps he has not received any complaints," said

Cmdr. Barnes, "but oyster growers at Crofton have been complaining to the fisheries department about the pulp mill pollution of oysters for some time."

POLLUTION TALK

Mr. Gallagher had spoken after the Crofton Ratepayers' Association announced a campaign to "eliminate the nuisance" of air and water pollution here.

The BCFP official also said mill smoke was not harmful to health and was being combated through such projects as extra oxidation towers.

Alberni MLA Critical
Of Mac-Powell Profits

PORT ALBERNI—Pleased, but not overly amused or impressed, was the reaction of Alberni MLA John Squire of the NDP to the annual financial statement released Monday by MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd. (Details, Page 8.)

Mr. Squire, a member of the legislature's forestry committee, said shareholders and the public will "be pleased to note the healthy condition of B.C.'s largest forest products industry."

As a member of the committee, however, he said, "I am not overly amused or impressed when I recall the presentation of the B.C. Council of Forestry Industries made to the committee less than a month ago."

The committee was considering higher rental fees on timber leases and licences and the forest industries "cried blue ruin and forecast loss of foreign markets due to increased costs at home."

Mr. Squire said the committee recommended the fee increases to the House and they now are in effect. They amount to less than one cent per thousand board feet of standing timber on the leases and licences.

CONFIRMS ARGUMENT

The MLA said the Mac-Powell profit statement "with others to follow that will be just as impressive confirms (an NDP) argument."

This is that stumpage rates should also be increased to provide "an even greater return to the provincial government to build the schools and hospitals so sorely needed."

Individual offices on the upper level.

The lower floor will have a 40-foot by 60-foot hall, a kitchen and other facilities.

The rear of the lot is a slope into Coal Creek gully and plans are to landscape the area. Parking for 18 cars will be provided at the front and on the west side of the building.

Mr. Corbell said the architects require about two months to complete detailed plans and call for tenders.

At Gold River

Campbell Pushing Plans
For Model Townsite

By IAN STREET
Legislative Reporter

The government is pushing ahead with all possible speed in the creation of a model community at Gold River on the west coast of Vancouver Island.

Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell said Monday letters patent for the new community are being drawn up by his department.

The new community, eight miles from the present logging community at the head of Muchalat Inlet, will be the first of the government's model towns to be created from scratch.

Mr. Campbell has just returned from a study of Manitoba communities in transit from company towns to open communities.

He said B.C. will insist on local participation from the beginning in the new communities, to avoid problems arising from creation by private enterprise of communities later handed over to local authorities.

He said the first couple of years of development at Gold River had been considered largely by a construction phase.

The department has learned, however, some residents of the present community plan to build homes on the new townsite without delay. The site is being cleared.

This will give immediate ownership participation in the affairs of the new community.

Old Gravel Pit Eyed
As Ladysmith Dump

LADYSMITH — The Ladysmith division of Crown Zellerbach Canada Ltd. will be asked if an abandoned gravel pit in the Diamond Bridge area is available as a town garbage dump.

At a town council meeting Monday night, it was decided works committee chairman Ald. Bernard Churchill will approach the firm.

THREE MILES

Plans for a dump in the Cassidy area brought many protests. The gravel pit is three miles north of Ladysmith and one-quarter mile from the nearest home. The fill method would be used.

Mayor Kathleen Groubel announced Mayor Dobson of Duncan, Reeve Morton of North Cowichan and herself have agreed the three communities should join to provide a $1,500 scholarship.

It would be their way of honoring Premier Bennett on his record as longest serving B.C. leader.

Council decided to discuss an offer from Clare Cowles of 1.12 acres at Fourth and Victoria for $6,500 as a site for a new firehall. Aldermen also granted a request from the town planning advisory committee that they consider hiring a part-time town planner.

A suggestion at the last meeting that Mayor Groubel's picture replace that of her predecessor, Leonard Ryan, in the council meeting room brought a counterproposal.

ROOM FOR MORE

She said she would rather give the city a plaque bearing the names of all mayors since 1904, with room for more.

Council decided to send to Victoria preacher Robert Leggett, at his request, a copy of the traffic bylaw clause under which police told him to leave First Avenue last week. A businessman said his street meeting had stopped trade.

Red Scientist Claims:

Radio Finds Life In Distant Space

MOSCOW (Reuters)—Soviet radio astronomers have discovered a source of regular-patterned radio waves on the far fringes of space and one of them says definitely "a super-civilization has been discovered." It was reported Monday.

The claimant, Dr. Nikolai Kardashev, last year urged scientists around the world to study the distant source, CTA-102, more thoroughly than any other objective in the universe. Recent observations by astronomer Gennady Sholomitsky have shown that emissions from CTA-102 follow a regular pattern of flickerings repeated every 100 days, the news agency Tass reported.

NEW CIVILIZATION

This finding, Kardashev said, confirms that a new civilization has been found, but other astronomers call for more verification of data before drawing such a conclusion.

Results of Sholomitsky's findings in recent months have been sent almost daily to Moscow to be checked and rechecked.

MAJOR DISCOVERY

Moscow scientists say "we face perhaps one of the most outstanding discoveries in the whole history of radio-astronomy."

John Wyndham of the California Institute of Technology, who first catalogued CTA-102, said he had not noticed any variations in radio strength, but added:

FIRST OF ITS KIND

"If it is true that the radio emission fluctuates, this would be the first of its kind among quasars."

"Quasar," or quasi-stellar radio sources, is the scientific name for the invisible signal-emitting pinpoints in space.

Harrie Massey, chairman of the British National Committee for Space Research, said of the Russian claims:

"It is extremely interesting. One must take it seriously."

But he said the Russians have by no means presented conclusive evidence.

SOMETHING NEW

Fred Haddock, a radio astronomer at the University of Michigan, said:

"If they indeed have signals of regularly varying intensity, this would indeed be something new in the field."

Frank D. Drake, an astronomer at Cornell University, said:

"If the 'flickering' follows a simple pattern, a natural explanation is likely. If the pattern is complex and repeats itself, an intelligent origin is likely."

Kardashev theorized that if the emissions are caused by rational beings the source must be very small. Tass said this

St. Paul, Minn.: Mississippi rising

Crests Still to Come

Minnesotans Battling Flood-Swollen Rivers

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—Minnesotans by the thousands stayed away from jobs and schools Monday to fight rising rivers. It appeared major flooding will last at least another week.

New Shuffle Expected In Viet Nam

SAIGON (Reuters)—A purge of South Viet Nam's powerful armed forces council appeared likely Monday following the removal of two key military figures from their commands over strong American objections.

Caouette Collapses

OTTAWA (CP)—Credentialed leader Real Caouette, 47, was taken to hospital in nearby Hull, Que., Monday after collapsing in his Commons office.

His executive assistant, Fernand Bourret, said heart trouble was suspected.

Dr. Paul A. Meilleur, who examined Mr. Caouette at hospital, said the Credentialed leader's condition did not appear to be serious.

The flood has taken seven lives, cost an estimated $30,000,000 in damage and left 20,000 persons homeless.

From city after city came reports of waters rising to new heights. Dikes built after earlier floods proved inadequate.

A dozen communities fought their own battles, aided by thousands of volunteers including teen-agers dismissed from schools in many areas.

Ice jams on the Mississippi River and its tributaries added to the woes.

A major effort continued in St. Paul where workers scrambled to finish a three-foot high addition to a permanent floodwall and to build new dikes around industrial plants and stockyards.

A 27-foot river crest due in St. Paul Friday would be an all-time record and 13 feet over flood stage.

"We feel that if the predictions hold we should be all right," said Eugene Avery, St. Paul city engineer. "The additions we're making should give us about a foot of free board."

The Minnesota River, looping through south-central Minnesota, was beginning a slow downward trend, but embattled Mankato will have to wait at least until Saturday before the river recedes within its banks.

The Red Lake River in the Northwest joined the list of rampaging waters, with waves lapping at the top of sandbags piled atop permanent dikes built after a 1950 flood.

The Minnesota River was due to crest at Shakopee and Savage Monday night, moving relentlessly to its junction with the Mississippi below St. Paul.

The usually docile Crow River continued to flood Delano and Hutchinson west of Minneapolis.

Bicultural Queries 'Irrelevant'

Pearson Wouldn't Answer

OTTAWA (CP)—Memo to the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism:

Prime Minister Pearson considers some questions in your survey of MPs "irrelevant and highly inappropriate" and would not answer them himself.

This was the gist of a statement Mr. Pearson made in the Commons Monday in reply to complaints last week by Opposition Leader Diefenbaker and other Conservatives that the royal commission was "snooping" in party politics.

NOT RELEVANT

The Prime Minister said he agrees with the commission's aim of seeking "all relevant information on the bilingual and bicultural aspects of the work of our institutions, including Parliament," but he didn't approve of the questionnaire in its present form.

"If I were asked to answer it in its present form I would not, as I consider many of the questions irrelevant and some highly inappropriate," Mr. Pearson said he did not want to tell any inquiry what to do or interfere improperly, once the terms of reference were set.

"But I would think," he added, "that after reviewing what was said this morning in the House of Commons, the royal commission might wish to have another look at this questionnaire."

A spokesman for the commission told a reporter later that it was doing just that.

Commission co-chairmen David Duncanson and Andre Laurendeau were expected to discuss the issue shortly with their officials.

Mr. Pearson said 35 to 40 MPs in all parties have agreed so far to two-hour in-depth interviews by a dozen researchers from the commission. Very few had refused. The original plan was to interview senators later.

Purpose of the research project was to delineate the different attitudes between French- and English-speaking MPs and senators towards their functions in Parliament and their relations with their constituents, leaders, parties and party caucus groups.

Brunswick, Ohio: one side got it

White Paper Shows Whopping Deficit Cut

OTTAWA (CP)—Last spring's federal budget deficit of $613,200,000 was cut by a whopping 87 per cent to $83,000,000 in the 1964-65 fiscal year, Finance Minister Gordon reported Monday.

After tabling his pre-budget white paper in the Commons, Monday, April 12, he told reporters:

"It was a very good year in all industries, in all economic components and in all parts of the country."

Mr. Gordon announced in the Commons that his budget for the new year will be introduced the day the Commons returns from its proposed "Easter recess," Monday, April 19.

He told reporters he had underestimated the growth of the economy and buoyancy of federal government revenues last year. This is the kind of under-estimation he does not find embarrassing, he said.

The deficit for the year ended

March 31 was the lowest since a $39,000,000 deficit in 1957-58, and came after a string of six running as high as $781,000,000 in 1961-62. In his budget last spring Mr. Gordon had forecast a deficit of $435,000,000.

NO PREDICTION

But he would make no prediction Monday about the size of the deficit—or surplus—he expects at the end of the current fiscal year next March 31. That forecast will be in his budget speech.

"I am optimistic about the months ahead and the years ahead, as well as the long-term future of Canada," he told reporters.

What does the white paper mean to the man in the street? he was asked.

UNDER CONTROL

"It means the finances of the federal government are under control once again and the business of the country is being pretty well managed."

The economy last year surged forward to a much greater extent than the government anticipated.

CHICAGO (AP)—The United States counted a staggering 239 deaths Monday in the wake of the Palm Sunday outbreak of tornadoes that hit six states.

Families dug through debris looking for valuables in what had been their homes. National Guardsmen were ordered to stricken areas to aid in salvage work and prevent looting, and officials began the vast cleanup job.

The death list from five battered states was 173 in Indiana, 55 in Ohio, 44 in Michigan, seven in Illinois and three in Wisconsin.

SERVICES CUT

Still crippled were communications, utilities, and normal services of nearly 50 communities. Water shortage and health perils were reported.

The tornadoes, starting in Iowa, which was relatively unscathed, smashed a path eastward across a heavily populated region to Ohio before easing their punishment.

1,500 INJURED

The American Red Cross said more than 1,500 were injured, more than 1,200 homes were destroyed or damaged in at least 53 communities.

Damage was expected to run into many millions of dollars. The American Insurance Association designated the string of storms as catastrophes.

FOLLOWED KILLER

Sunday's barrage of twisters came after a tornado killed six persons and injured 80 at Conway, Ark., Saturday night.

The torn, crumpled, flattened suburban sections of Toledo, brought the exclamation from Governor James A. Rhodes of Ohio:

"Fantastic... unbelievable! There's nothing you can compare it with."

GUARDS CALLED OUT

Rhodes ordered National Guard units to help police and disaster forces to bring order out of wreckage and care for stunned people.

The National Guard was also ordered out in small units to scattered communities in Michigan and Indiana. Both states were scarred from west to east limits.

FIELDS SEARCHED

Indiana, with the highest state death toll, was expected to find more bodies as workers searched open fields, cellars of smashed homes and wreckage of stores. Many victims were blown hundreds of feet by wind.

Probers Pin Guilt on Nerve Gas

Poisoned Sheets Nearly Killed Two Boys

TORONTO (CP)—The near-fatal illness of two Vancouver youngsters sparked an international investigation that eventually blamed an accident at sea and resulted in the destruction of cargo in widely-separated communities.

A report on two cases of parathion (nerve gas) poisoning in the current Journal of the Canadian Medical Association reads like a detective drama.

Authorities in Belgium, California, Ottawa, Edmonton, Vancouver and Burnaby, B.C., became involved after two boys, one five years old, the other 12, were admitted to Lions Gate Hospital in North Vancouver nine days apart a year ago.

B. F., the five-year-old, was admitted the morning of March 29, 1964, with breathing difficulties, in semi-coma after a few days of illness and vision trouble. He soon lapsed into coma, foamed at the mouth and required artificial respiration to breathe.

That night, "he suddenly and inexplicably began to improve" and he was discharged well from hospital April 9. Pediatrician J. E. Parker says it was decided the boy had been suffering from viral encephalitis—inflammation of the brain from a virus infection.

V. R., a 12-year-old neighbor of B. F., was admitted to the hospital April 7 in the same condition and required an emergency operation to open his windpipe. He regained consciousness the next morning and was discharged April 18.

Meanwhile, R. F. became ill again and returned to hospital April 11. By this time, doctors suspected poisoning and administered the drug atropine, which led to the boy's recovery.

Public health authorities were approached and they made their first visits to the homes of the boys April 13 in a search for the source of the trouble.

They found R. F.'s 16-year-old brother in bed ill with headache, blurred vision and complaints of muscular weakness.
